

MIHOPE-K Caregiver Website Specifications

Overview

Parents of children who are eligible for the kindergarten follow-up will be sent a letter/email with login credentials for accessing the MIHOPE Parent Website that allows them to:

- Confirm whether the sample child is in kindergarten or first grade
- Verify/update their contact information
- Specify preferred days/times for completing the parent interview and in-home assessment visit
- Provide consent to contact the child's teacher and provide his/her contact information

Website Flow

Upon initial login to the website: Parents will be asked to confirm whether the sample child will be in kindergarten or first grade for the upcoming school year unless this information has been confirmed through other means.

If confirmed the sample child is not in kindergarten/first grade: Parents will be notified that their child is not eligible to be part of this cohort, but they will be re-contacted next year. They will be asked to verify their contact information to facilitate this.

After confirming the sample child is in kindergarten/first grade: Parents will be asked to verify contact information so they can be called to complete the parent interview and schedule the in-home visit. They will also be able to specify which days/times are convenient to be reached.

After verifying contact information: Eligible parents will be asked to consent to have the study team contact their child's teacher and invite them to complete a survey about the child. They will also be asked to provide contact information for the teacher and the child's school.

Each page of the website has been mocked-up. This mock-up provides a general feel for how the web template will look, with a navigation bar at the top with links to move around the site and a banner/footer at the bottom that repeats on each page.

About the Teacher Survey

Why should I give you this information?

The information we get from your child's teacher could help improve services for parents just like you with young children. Your child's teacher is one of over 4,000 teachers whose input is extremely valuable to this study. Their opinions and experiences are unique and cannot be replaced!

Why do you want to contact my child's teacher? What information are you collecting?

We want to know if home visiting affects how children are doing now that they are in school. Asking your child's teacher some questions is the best way for us to get this information. We will ask about your child's behaviors in school, such as their social and learning behaviors. We will also ask about special education services, times when your child may have gotten in trouble, and absences. These questions will be short and will take no more than 15 minutes. The study team will follow strict rules to protect these answers and your privacy.

What do you need from me?

In order to contact your child's teacher, we are collecting the name of your child's teacher, the name of your child's school, and the email address and phone number of the teacher. We will not provide this information to anyone outside the study team, unless it is required by law. We would also like your electronic permission to contact your child's teacher.

Do I have to give you information about my child's teacher and school?

Providing this information is completely your choice. There is no penalty if you decide not to provide it. Giving us permission to talk to your child's teacher is also your choice. If you do not give us permission, we will not contact your child's teacher.

To give us permission to contact your child's teacher, please click Next.

If you do not want to give permission, click here to return to the homepage.

Agreement to Contact your Child's Teacher for the Mother and Infant Home Visiting Program Evaluation

Thank you for agreeing to take part in the Mother and Infant Home Visiting Program Evaluation (MIHOPE). As you were told, this is a research project about the effects of home visiting services. A nonprofit organization called MDRC is running the study. The study team also includes Mathematica Policy Research [and the University of Georgia]. Other researchers may be added in the future. This study is funded by the U.S. Department of Health and Human Services. The study aims to improve services for parents with young children.

We thank you for your time and help in MIHOPE. We would like you to help us in one more way. We would like to contact your child's teacher so that they can answer a survey about your child. The survey will give us information on your child's behavior and performance in school. We would like your permission to contact the teacher and have them answer questions about your child.

What does it mean to collect teacher surveys?

We will ask you to give us the name of the teacher, the name of your child's school, and the email address and phone number of the teacher. Your child's teacher will be asked to complete a short survey. We will ask about your child's behaviors in school. We will also ask about special education services, times when your child may have gotten in trouble, and absences.

What are the benefits and risks to me providing this consent?

This information may help improve services for parents with young children. There is minimal risk to you or your child by giving us permission to contact the teacher. None of the questions on the teacher survey are on sensitive topics. There is a small risk that your child's information will be seen outside the study team. However, the study team follows strict rules to protect your privacy. No reports will include any names or any other identifying information. We will not provide information that identifies you, your child, your child's school, or your district to anyone outside the study team, except as required by law. We will keep your information private unless there is concern that you or someone else may be harmed.

How will my information be protected?

The research team follows strict rules to keep your information private. Any information collected for the study will be used only for research purposes. We use secure computers and data storage systems to protect data from being seen by anyone other than the researchers. All study staff are trained to protect confidentiality. All study staff sign a confidentiality pledge. The study might be extended to past when your child is in kindergarten [or first grade]. If that happens, we might share your information with other researchers. These researchers or the current study team might continue to collect information about you and your family. They would also keep your information private.

All information about you will be marked with a code number and not your name. No reports will describe you in a way that you can be identified. We will share data from the study with other researchers, but the data will not let anyone know who you are. We have to deliver the study data to the federal government at the end of the study, but the data file will not contain information that can identify you.

The study has a Confidentiality Certificate from the U.S. Department of Health and Human Services. This states that we do not have to identify you, even under a court order or subpoena. We will use the Certificate to resist any requests for information that would identify you. However, if keeping your answers private would put you or someone else in serious danger, we will have to tell the appropriate agencies to protect you or the other person. The government may see your information if it audits the study, but it would keep your information confidential. This Certificate does not mean that the U.S. Secretary of Health and Human Services approves of this project.

MIHOPE Updates

What's happening now in MIHOPE?
We have finished collecting information from families when their children were 15 months old. Results on how home visiting helped these families are available at www.mdrc.org/mihope. Thanks to you, we have learned that home visiting is improving the lives of families in many ways when children are toddlers.

We are continuing to learn about how home visiting can make a difference for children and families. We are now moving to the kindergarten phase of the study, which will begin this fall.
