

Appendix K.2. Concept Mapping Informed Consent Form

Thank you for your interest in participating in the U.S. Department of Agriculture's Food and Nutrition Service (FNS) study of household food security and well-being in Puerto Rico. As a participating stakeholder, you will help the study team develop a conceptual map of Puerto Rico's food system. The conceptual map is intended to describe points of resiliency and vulnerability in Puerto Rico's food system and help policymakers improve the delivery and effectiveness of the Nutrition Assistance Program (NAP). Participating stakeholders will also help identify existing research gaps that should be filled to better address policies related to household food security and well-being. The results will be summarized and shared with FNS and may be seen by other policymakers, public health professionals, and researchers who work on food and nutrition assistance programs.

How you were selected

One or more members of a Technical Working Group recommended you based on your experience in one or more of the following areas: human services (e.g., food banks, community action agencies); public agencies (e.g., human services, education, healthcare); advocacy organizations (e.g., neighborhood associations, civic groups, faith communities); private businesses (e.g., agribusiness, food retailers); and academia (e.g., nutritionists, economists, political scientists). You are one of approximately 65 individuals who have been asked to participate in the concept map development.

Risks and privacy

There is little risk to participate in this study. You will not be asked for any personal information as part of this process. Should you choose to participate, you will be asked to respect the privacy of other group members by not disclosing any content discussed during the study. Researchers and data analysts from Insight Policy Research will combine participants' responses and report them as overall findings, but your responses will remain private.

Benefits of the study

There are no direct benefits to you for participating in the study. However, the information you provide will help FNS make decisions that could strengthen food safety net and disaster relief programs in Puerto Rico.

Study costs and compensation

There is no cost to you to participate, apart from the time you will spend participating in the following tasks:

- ▶ Two 90-minute virtual meetings
- ▶ Review of background documents for each meeting (up to a 90-minute time commitment)
- ▶ An online assignment between the two meetings that will require approximately 60 minutes to complete

To thank you for your time, we will provide $50 honoraria after each virtual meeting ($100 total) (paid by check).
