

The National Cancer Institute and National Institutes of Health invite you to attend the virtual John Milner Nutrition and Cancer Prevention Research Practicum, which will take place March 10-12, 2021.

This three half-day learning session provides specialized instruction in the role of diet and bioactive food components as modifiers of cancer incidence and tumor behavior.

The John Milner Nutrition and Cancer Prevention Practicum is free to attend and open to all. To learn more about the practicum and to register, please visit <https://events.cancer.gov/nsrg/practicum/agenda> <https://events.cancer.gov/nsrg/practicum/registration>

Event Contact Information: Elaine Trujillo, trujille@mail.nih.gov, 240-276-7116.

Individuals with disabilities who need reasonable accommodation to participate in this event should contact Elaine Trujillo 5 business days in advance of the webinar date to discuss accommodation needs.

Thank you,

Nutritional Science Research Group
Division of Cancer Prevention
National Cancer Institute