

National Park Service VISITOR PLANNING STUDY

Date

The National Park Service (NPS) is conducting a survey to help plan for the millions of visitors who arrive at America's 400+ National Parks, National Seashores, National Historic Sites, National Battlefields, and National Monuments. The NPS is working with RSG, a professional market research firm, to help with this effort.

Your household has been selected to participate in this survey to gather preferences and opinions about visiting NPS properties. Your responses are important because they will represent the opinions of other households like yours not selected for this study.

To make this study more scientific, we ask that the survey be completed by the adult (18 years or older) in your household who most recently celebrated their birthday.
