[ADULT EDUCATION PROVIDER SITE]

The U.S. Department of Education is sponsoring a study of career navigation training called Connecting Adults to Success: Evaluation of Career Navigator Training. Mathematica is conducting this study for the Department in partnership with Manhattan Strategy Group and Social Policy Research. As a reminder, [ADULT EDUCATION PROVIDER SITE] agreed to participate in this study.

The purpose of the study is to understand the effects of training for career navigators on learners' education and employment outcomes.

- Career navigators may also be referred to as career coaches, career advisors, career consultants, career counselors, college navigators, transition coordinators, or case managers.
- Learners may also be referred to as clients or customers.

The study will compare learners enrolled in adult education services in two different groups of providers, one where career navigators receive training in the fall of 2022, and one where career navigators receive training two years later. Your provider was assigned to a group based on a random process, like a coin flip. All career navigators at your site are in the same group.

Today, you are being asked to take a short survey about your background and training as well as your experience as a career navigator. Your participation in this survey is important and will help us learn about the different experiences of career navigators. This survey will take about 30 minutes to complete, depending on your responses. Participation in the survey is completely voluntary and you may choose to skip any question you prefer not to answer. If you are unsure of how to answer a question, please give the best answer you can rather than leaving it blank.

The researchers conducting this study follow the confidentiality and data protection requirements of the U.S. Department of Education's IES (The Education Sciences Reform Act of 2022, Title I, Part E, Section 183). All your responses will be kept private and used only for research purposes. Your responses will be combined with the responses of other respondents and no individual names will be reported. While there are no direct benefits to participants, your participation will help us learn about career navigators and how career navigation training relates to student outcomes. There are no known risks associated with your participation.

If you have any questions about the study, please contact Mathematica's survey director, Lisbeth Goble, at XXX-XXX-XXXX or email her at XXX@mathematica-mpr.com.

- By clicking this box, you are confirming that you understand that the information you provide will be kept private and used only for research purposes. You further understand that your answers will be combined with the responses of other navigators so that no individuals will be identified.

A. EMPLOYMENT

The first questions are about your work at [ADULT EDUCATION PROVIDER SITE], including your role as a career navigator.

- Career navigators are typically staff whose role is to advise adult learners in career and college planning. These staff assist learners with selecting and applying for appropriate course work to progress on a career path, developing work and education plans, and transitioning to next steps. Career navigators provide counseling to learners and develop partnerships with education, workforce, and other service systems to help facilitate learner transitions.
- Career navigators may also be referred to as career coaches, career advisors, career consultants, career counselors, college navigators, transition coordinators, or case managers.

Education and training-related services: These are services that help the learner further their education or occupational or work training. This could include providing formal referrals to other education or training providers, providing referrals to academic support, helping learners identify and access financial supports for education, or facilitating the postsecondary admissions or registrations process.

Career support services: These are services that help the learner advance in a job, further their career, or obtain a new job. Services can include exploring career options and mapping out career pathways, providing job search assistance, or providing workforce preparation, such as resume preparation and mock interviews.

Personal skill development for learners: These are services that help the learner build the necessary personal skills to help them succeed in furthering their education or building their career. Services can include coaching learners on goal-setting, helping learners develop their own planning skills, and coaching learners on executive functioning skills.

Other supportive services: This could include assisting learners in identifying and registering for other services such as healthcare, childcare, legal, federal programs such as the Supplemental Nutrition Assistance Program (SNAP) or Temporary Assistance for Needy Families (TANF), transportation services, or providing digital or technology support.
