Your Cost of Pollination Survey is COMING SOON!

United States Department of Agriculture National Agricultural Statistics Service

Make your voice heard!

You will soon receive the Cost of Pollination survey from USDA's National Agricultural Statistics Service (NASS). NASS is reaching out to farmers to determine pollination costs incurred by crop producers.

Pollination expenditures are a necessary part of the crop industry. Survey data help producers and beekeepers monitor and react to changes in production costs.

Thank you for your participation! By responding, you give voice to thousands of farmers like yourself across the nation. If you have any questions, please contact us at 888-424-7828.
