Caseworker Informed Consent

National Survey of Child and Adolescent Well-Being (NSCAW)

NSCAW

The Administration for Children and Families (ACF), an agency within the U.S. Department of Health and Human Services, provides funding for activities that support the well-being of children and families. ACF hired RTI International (RTI), a research company in North Carolina, to conduct a national survey of children and families in the child welfare system. RTI works with researchers from the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill and Washington University in St. Louis to carry out the study

SELECTION OF PARTICIPANTS

RTI selected 4,500 children to take part in this study. All of the selected children had contact with the child welfare system during a 12-month period. As a part of the study, we conduct interviews with the child, the child's caregiver, and with the caseworker. You have been identified as the primary caseworker of one or more participating children. We will follow up with sampled children and families in 18 months to conduct a second interview.

PURPOSE OF NSCAW CASEWORKER INTERVIEWS

The case worker interview collects information about the child's history with the child welfare system and services recommended or provided by the agency. Your answers combined with the answers of others in the study will help us describe the needs of children and their use of available child welfare services. Research reports will summarize the collected information and help policy makers improve the child welfare system. We will not share your answers with the child or the child's caregiver. They will not know how you responded to the questions.

TYPES OF QUESTIONS FOR CASEWORKERS

The caseworker interview takes about 45 minutes. The interviewer will ask you questions about the events surrounding the investigation/assessment, about characteristics of the family, and any factors that contributed to your report.

YOUR RIGHTS

You can decide to take part in this study or not. You can refuse to answer any and all questions. Your decision to take part will not affect you, your job, or any services the child may receive. You have the right to stop the interview at any time.

RISKS

Taking part in this study presents no physical risks to you. Some questions might make you feel uneasy or feel various emotions, such as sadness. We have significant protections in place to collect and store your information securely. However, there is a small risk that if someone does not follow the rules we set, someone outside the study team might see your information. We minimize this risk by transferring and storing your information and interview data using a study ID and not your name.

BENEFITS

Taking part in this study presents no direct benefits to you, the caregiver, or to the child. Your input will help us learn about the needs of children and the services available to them.

PRIVACY

We keep your responses private to the extent permitted by law. We keep your answers on a secure computer labeled with an ID number. Your name and that of the child will not be reported with any information you provide. All staff involved in this research have signed a Privacy Pledge.

This research is covered by a federal protection called a Certificate of Confidentiality. This means the researchers cannot share the information they gather that may identify you. The Certificate prevents researchers from revealing this information even if it is subpoenaed by a court.

However, the Certificate does allow researchers to share information in some situations. For example, researchers must follow reporting laws about child and adult abuse. Also, as a part of agreeing to be in this study, you are giving permission for researchers to share information in the rare circumstance that it is needed to prevent serious risk to yourself or others. In addition, the agency that funds this research (the Administration for Children and Families) is permitted to access information to confirm that the research is being conducted properly.

In the future, information from this study may be securely shared with qualified individuals to help learn more about the experiences of children and families with the child welfare system. The information that is shared will only include a study ID number and not your name.

We never identify a single person or family in our reports. Your information will be combined with information from other people taking part in the study. When we write up the study to share it with other researchers, we will write about the combined information. You will not be identified in any published or presented materials.

QUESTIONS

If you have questions, please call Jennifer Keeney at RTI, 1-800-334-8571 extension 23525 (toll-free number). If you have questions about your rights as a study participant, please call RTI's Office of Human Research Protection at 1-866-214-2043 (a toll-free number).

You will receive a copy of this consent form to keep.

Audio Recordings Statement

We use a laptop quality control (QC) system for this study. The system runs on the computer. This system will make audio recordings of what you and I say to each other during the interview. Neither you nor I will know when the computer records what we say. Project staff at RTI will listen to the recordings only to review my work.

The recordings are securely stored on my computer and transmitted back to RTI within 12 hours after this interview. They are stored on secure computers and only members of the project team can review them. The recordings will be destroyed at the end of the study after data have been cleaned and analyzed.

Check one box.

- Yes, I consent to having parts of this interview recorded by the computer for quality reviews.
- No, I do not want any part of this interview recorded.

An agency may not conduct or sponsor, and a person is not required to respond to, a collection of information unless it displays a currently valid OMB control number. The OMB number and expiration date for this collection are OMB #: 0970-0202, Exp: 09/30/2023. Send comments regarding this burden estimate or any other aspect of this collection of information, including suggestions for reducing this burden to Dr. Melissa Dolan; 230 W. The Federal Government has issued a Certificate of Confidentiality (authorized by the Public Health Service Act Section 301(d), 42 U.S.C Section 241 (d), 1988) to the researchers who are conducting this study which authorizes us to protect the privacy of individuals who participate.

Caregiver Informed Consent

National Survey of Child and Adolescent Well-Being (NSCAW)

NSCAW

The Administration for Children and Families (ACF) provides funding for activities that support the well-being of children and families. ACF hired RTI International (RTI), a research company in North Carolina, to conduct a national survey of children and families in the child welfare system. RTI works with researchers at the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill and Washington University in St. Louis to carry out the study.

SELECTION OF CHILDREN AND OTHER PARTICIPANTS

RTI selected 4,500 children to take part in this study. All of the children had contact with the child welfare system during a 12-month period. The study includes observations or interviews with selected children. The study also includes interviews with the child's caregiver and case worker. We plan to interview children and their caregivers two times. We will schedule the second interview 18 months after the first interview. We must have permission from a parent or legal guardian to include the child in the study. This form explains the caregiver interview. A separate form explains the child's part in the study. This form explains the caregiver's participation in the study and that interview.

PURPOSE OF THIS NSCAW CAREGIVER INTERVIEW

We want to interview you about your child and your experiences with the child welfare system. Your answers combined with answers of other caregivers in the study will help us describe the needs of children and their use of available child welfare services. What we learn from this information will help policy makers make improvements to the child welfare system.

TYPES OF QUESTIONS FOR CAREGIVERS AND OTHER INFORMATION GATHERED

The caregiver interview takes about 100 minutes. The length of your interview depends on the age of your child and other factors. The interview includes questions about your child's learning, health, behavior, and relationships with friends. We will ask about services your family may receive and your level of satisfaction with those services. We also want to learn about your attitudes about raising children, your life experiences, and your involvement with school and community activities. The interviewer will ask about things that may happen in your family like violence in the home, drug abuse, and other risky behaviors such as drinking and involvement with the police. We will also take notes on what we see in your home such as toys you have. In addition, we will observe your interactions with your child and ask you to tell us about your relationship with your child.

YOUR RIGHTS

You can decide to take part in this study or not. You can refuse to answer any and all questions. Taking part in this study does not affect any benefits you or your child may receive.

RISKS

Taking part in this study presents no physical risks to you and your child. Some questions might make you feel uneasy or feel various emotions, such as sadness. We have significant protections in place to collect and store our information securely. However, there is a small risk that if someone does not follow the rules we set, someone outside of the study team might see your information. We minimize this risk by transferring and storing your information and interview data using a study ID and not your name.

If we learn a child's life or health may be in danger during the interview, we will tell the appropriate authorities. The Privacy section provides more information below.

BENEFITS

Taking part presents no direct benefits to you or your child for answering our questions. What we learn from you may help to improve child welfare services and programs. By taking part, you will help us understand the needs of children and the services available to them.

FUTURE CONTACTS

We may contact you in eighteen months for another round of interviews. This will help us understand changes over time. You can decide whether to talk with us at that time.

PRIVACY

We keep your answers private to the extent allowed by law. We keep your answers on a secure computer labeled with an ID number. We do not identify you or your child by name. All staff involved in this research have signed a Privacy Pledge.

This research is covered by a federal protection called a Certificate of Confidentiality. This means the researchers cannot share the information they gather that may identify you. The Certificate prevents researchers from revealing this information even if it is subpoenaed by a court.

However, the Certificate does allow researchers to share information in some situations. For example, researchers must follow reporting laws about child or adult abuse. When we write up the study to share it with other researchers, we will write about the combined information. You will not be identified in any published or presented materials.

Three important exceptions to note.

- (1) We will tell the appropriate authorities if the interviewer or project staff think your child's life or health may be in danger.
- (2) Also, if we think your life or health may be in serious danger, we will contact someone qualified to assist you.
- (3) At some point in the future, a different group of researchers may take over this study. If that happens, with your consent, we will give contacting information for you and your child to the other group.

QUESTIONS

If you have questions, please call Jennifer Keeney at the RTI, 1-800-334-8571 extension 23525 (toll-free number). If you have questions about your rights as a study participant, please call RTI's Office of Human Research Protections at 1-866-214-2043 (a toll-free number).

You will receive a copy of this consent form to keep.

You will receive [INCENTIVE AMOUNT] in cash as a thank you for your input. If you skip some of the questions or decide to stop participating, you will still receive the [INCENTIVE AMOUNT]. If you take part in future interviews, you will receive a similar amount for those interviews.

Audio Recordings Statement

We use a laptop quality control system (QC) system for this study. The system runs on the computer. This system will make audio recordings that we will use for two purposes:

- The computer will record parts of what you and I say to each other during the interview. Neither you nor I will know when the computer records what we say. Project staff at RTI will listen to the recordings only to review my work.
- We would also like to record the last part of the interview. In this part, we will ask parents and caregivers to talk in their own words about their thoughts and feelings about the child. We will use this recording to better understand the child’s family environment. We will record this part of the interview to capture fully and accurately what you say. Project staff will listen to the recordings and change your answers into codes that express your main ideas. We will only use the codes in our study.

The recordings are securely stored on my computer and transmitted back to RTI within 12 hours after this interview. They are stored on secure computers and only members of the project team can review them. The recordings will be destroyed at the end of the study after data have been cleaned and analyzed.

Do we have your permission to run this system during the interview?

Check one box.

Yes, I agree to have parts of this interview recorded by the computer.

No, I do not want any part of this interview recorded.

Legal Guardian Permission for Child Participation

National Survey of Child and Adolescent Well-Being (NSCAW)

NSCAW

The Administration for Children and Families (ACF) provides funding for activities that support the well-being of children and families. ACF hired RTI International (RTI), a research company in North Carolina, to conduct a national survey of children and families in the child welfare system. RTI works with researchers at the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill and Washington University in St. Louis to carry out the study.

SELECTION OF CHILDREN AND OTHER PARTICIPANTS

RTI interviewers will contact families of children selected from child welfare agencies throughout the United States to invite them to take part. The study includes interviews with sampled children, their caregivers and their caseworkers. A child under your guardianship was one of 4,500 children selected to take part in this study. We must have permission from a parent or legal guardian to include the child in the study. Once we obtain your permission, the child can make the decision to take part in the study.

PURPOSE OF THIS NSCAW INTERVIEW

We want to interview the child, their current caregiver, and their caseworker. Their responses combined with the answers of others in the study will help us describe the needs of children and families and their use of available child welfare services. Research reports will summarize the information collected and assist policy makers in improving the child welfare system.

1 Caregiver of Emancipated Youth Informed Consent

National Survey of Child and Adolescent Well-Being (NSCAW)

NSCAW

The Administration for Children and Families (ACF) provides funding for activities that support the well-being of children and families. ACF has hired RTI International (RTI), a research company in North Carolina, to conduct a national survey of children and families in the child welfare system. RTI works with researchers at the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill and Washington University in St. Louis to carry out the study.

SELECTION OF CHILDREN AND OTHER PARTICIPANTS

RTI selected 4,500 children to take part in this study. Selected children had contact with the child welfare system during a 12-month period. The study also includes interviews with the child's caregiver and case worker. We selected a child currently or very recently in your care to take part in the study. That child gave us their permission to approach you for an interview.

PURPOSE OF THIS NSCAW INTERVIEW

We want to interview you about the child, your experiences with the child welfare system and your family. Your answers combined with the answers of other caregivers in the study will help us describe the needs of children and their use of available child welfare services. What we learn from this information will help policy makers make improvements to the child welfare system.

TYPES OF QUESTIONS FOR PARENT

Your interview may last up to 100 minutes. The interview includes questions about the child's learning, health, behavior, and relationships with friends. For older children, we ask about their involvement in potentially risky behaviors. We also ask about services your family may receive and your satisfaction with those services. We want to learn about your attitudes about raising children, your life experiences, and your involvement with school and community activities. The interviewer will also ask you about the community in which you live, and about things that may happen in your life like violence in the home, involvement with police and risky behaviors such as sexual activity and drug use.

YOUR RIGHTS

You can decide to take part in this study or not. You can refuse to answer any and all questions. Taking part in the study does not affect any benefits you or the youth may receive. You have the right to stop the interview at any time.

RISKS

Taking part in the study presents no physical risks to you. Some questions might make you feel uneasy or feel emotions like sadness. We have significant protections in place to collect and store our information securely. However, there is a small risk that if someone does not follow the rules we set, someone outside the study team might see your information. We minimize this risk by transferring and storing your information and interview data using a study ID and not your name.

If we learn a child's life or health may be in danger during your interview, we will share this information with the appropriate authorities. The Privacy section provides more detail below.

BENEFITS

What we learn from you can help to improve child welfare services and programs. By taking part, you will help us understand the needs of children and services available to them.

FUTURE CONTACTS

To help us understand changes over time, we will contact your child in eighteen months for another round of interviews.

PRIVACY

We keep your responses private to the extent allowed by the law. We keep your interview answers on a secure computer labeled with an ID number. We never identify you by name. All staff involved in this research have signed a Privacy Pledge.

This research is covered by a federal protection called a Certificate of Confidentiality. This means the researchers cannot share the information they gather that may identify you. The Certificate prevents researchers from revealing this information even if it is subpoenaed by a court.

However, the Certificate does allow researchers to share information in some situations. For example, researchers must follow reporting laws about child or adult abuse. Also, as a part of agreeing to be in this study, you are giving permission for researchers to share information in the rare circumstance that it is needed to prevent serious risk to yourself or others. In addition, the agency that funds this research (the Administration for Children and Families) is permitted to access information to confirm that the research is being conducted properly.

In the future, information from this study may be securely shared with qualified individuals to help learn more about the experiences of children and families with the child welfare system. The information that is shared will only include a study ID number and not your name.

We never identify a single person or family in our reports. Your information will be combined with information from other people taking part in the study. When we write up the study to share it with other researchers, we will write about the combined information. You will not be identified in any published or presented materials.

Three important exceptions to note.

- (1) We will inform the appropriate authorities if the interviewer or project staff think your child's life or health may be in danger.
- (2) Also, if we think your life or health may be in serious danger, we will contact individuals qualified to assist you.
- (3) At some point in the future this research may be done by another research group. If that happens, with your consent, we would give contacting information for you and the youth to the other group.

QUESTIONS

If you have questions, please call Jennifer Keeney at the RTI, 1-800-334-8571 extension 23525 (toll-free number). If you have any questions about your rights as a study participant, please call RTI's Office of Human Research Protections at 1-866-214-2043 (a toll-free number).

You will receive a copy of this consent form to keep.

You will receive $50 in cash in appreciation of your input. If you skip some of the questions or decide to stop participating, you will still receive the $50. If you participate in future rounds, we will provide a similar amount in appreciation of your participation in those interviews.

1Emancipated Youth Consent Form / Permission for Caregiver Interview

National Survey of Child and Adolescent Well-Being (NSCAW)

NSCAW

The Administration for Children and Families (ACF) provides funding for activities that support the well-being of children and families. ACF hired RTI International (RTI), a research company in North Carolina, to conduct a national survey of children and families in the child welfare system. RTI works with researchers at the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill and Washington University in St. Louis to carry out the study.

SELECTION OF YOUTH AND OTHER PARTICIPANTS

RTI interviewers will contact families of youth, like you, selected from child welfare agencies throughout the United States. We selected over 4,500 youth to participate in this study. The study also includes interviews with caregivers and case workers.

PURPOSE OF THIS NSCAW INTERVIEW

Your interview may take about 100 minutes to complete. We want to interview you about the kinds of things you can do, how you behave at home and at school, and your feelings about family and friends. We want to learn about people who may help you. We also want to ask about things your parents don't know about or don't like for you to do. This includes skipping school, smoking, drinking, vandalism, using drugs, sexual activities, and other risky or illegal behaviors. Your answers, combined with the answers of other youth in the study, will help us describe the needs of children and their use of available child welfare services. What we learn from this information will help policy makers make improvements to the child welfare system. If you live with or have lived with a parent, grandparent, or other adult who took care of you in the last three months, we will request your permission to speak with that person.

PURPOSE OF THE NSCAW CAREGIVER INTERVIEW

The interview with the person who took care of you may last up to 100 minutes. We will ask them questions about services your family receives, family relationships and support, life experiences, and involvement with school and community activities. We will also ask questions about your learning, behavior, health, and friendships.

YOUR RIGHTS

You can decide to take part in the study or not. You can refuse to answer any and all questions. Taking part does not affect any benefits you may receive. You have the right to take a break or stop the interview at any time.

RISKS

Taking part in this study presents no physical risks to you. Some questions might make you feel uneasy or feel various emotions, such as sadness. We have significant protections in place to collect and store our information securely. However, there is a small risk that if someone does not follow the rules we set, someone outside the study team might see your information. We minimize this risk by transferring and storing your information and interview data using a study ID and not your name.

BENEFITS

Taking part presents no direct benefits to you for answering our questions. What we learn from you may help to improve child welfare services and programs.

FUTURE CONTACTS

We will contact you in eighteen months for a second interview. This will help us understand changes over time. You can decide to join at that time.

Assent Agreement for Youth Aged 7 to 10

National Survey of Child and Adolescent Well-Being (NSCAW)

Hello, my name is _____. _____ has given permission for you to talk with me.

Introduction

We want to tell you about a research study. A research study is a way to learn more about something. We would like to learn about children and families. You can take part or not. Either way is fine. If you join, you can ask questions at any time. Just tell me if you have any questions.

Purpose

The government wants to learn about the needs of children like yourself. They want to improve programs and services for children. We are talking to over 4,500 kids across the United States about this study. We are also talking to one of your parents or the person who takes care of you the most. The government hired a research company in North Carolina to conduct this study. I work for this research company.

Types of Questions

If you join the study, we will ask you questions about the kinds of things you can do and how you behave at home and at school. We will also ask about your feelings towards family and friends. Some other questions are about school and people who may help you. We also ask questions about things that may have happened in your home that scared or hurt you like violence in the home.

Time Involved

Our talk today will last about one hour.

Possible Risks

We ask questions that might make you feel uneasy or sad. You may find some of these questions bring back sad or frightening memories. If you want to stop, then all you have to do is tell me. If you do not want to answer a question, just tell me. If you want to take a break at any time, just let me know.

Possible Benefits

What we learn from this study might help children like you across the U.S.

Payment

When we finish, I will give you a $10 gift card for taking part. If you skip some of the questions or decide to stop participating, you will receive the gift card.

Privacy

We do many things to make sure your answers stay private. I am going to enter your answers into a laptop computer. We have a paper from the government that promises that we do not have to give your information to anyone. We will not tell anyone your answers unless we are worried about you or someone else's safety. For example, if you tell us you might hurt yourself or someone else we may tell someone. If you tell us someone hurts you, we may tell authorities to keep people safe.

Future Contacts

We will contact you in eighteen months. This is to see if you want to talk to us again. You can decide at that time if you want to talk to us again.

I will give you a copy of this form to keep.

May I talk to you and ask you questions?
