Study Loaner iPhone Guidelines

If you have been provided with a Westat iPhone for participation in the National Food Study, you must adhere to the following guidelines.

- The device is being provided exclusively for use on the National Food Study project. You and your household should not send, receive, or store personal messages, pictures, files, or other materials that you wish to keep “private”.
- Use of the device should be limited to participation on the study, and appropriate use of the device is expected. The device must not be used for accessing, transmitting, retrieving, or storing any information or communication (1) that is discriminatory or harassing or that may be perceived as derogatory to any individual or group, (2) that is defamatory or threatening, (3) that may be interpreted as hostile or offensive, or (4) for any other purpose that is illegal.
- You and your household should take care to keep the device secure and in working condition.
- You and your household should immediately report a misplaced, lost, or stolen device to the project. Include that Westat has installed the “Find My iPhone” app on the device in order to locate it in such an event but will not otherwise be using that function.
- The household incentive check will be issued once all Westat equipment has been returned to Westat.
