Group Quarters Review (PCGQR) will accept only population count submissions for in-scope group quarters that meet boundary or housing unit cases to the 2020 PCGQR. Supplemental demographic data (such as race and ethnic origin) are OPTIONAL. Population counts and demographic data for GQ residents should be based on the 2020 Census Residence Criteria and Residence Situations and additional guidance provided by the Census Bureau due to the COVID-19 pandemic for GQ residents.

Was this GQ submitted to 2020 Census CQR? If this GQ was submitted as part of 2020 Census Count Question Resolution open case, please select YES.

<https://www.census.gov/programs-surveys/decennial-census/decade/2020/planning-management/evaluate/cqr.html>

If the answer of the previous question is YES, please include the CQR case number.

The actual building name where residents, clients and/or staff live or stay. Include institution name for additional information if possible.

The group quarters type code and description. (See 2020 Group Quarters Code List Attached)

Address number of the actual physical location hosting the residents or clients.

Street name of the actual physical location hosting the residents or clients.

City of the actual physical location hosting the residents or clients.

State of the actual physical location hosting the residents or clients.

ZIP Code of the actual physical location hosting the residents or clients.

Location description (if there is no address) of the actual physical location hosting the residents or clients. If available, include latitude/longitude when Address Number and Street Name is not available.

The number of persons that were living or staying in this building on Census Day (April 1, 2020). This should be consistent with the 2020 Census Residence Criteria and Residence Situations and additional guidance provided by the Census Bureau due to the COVID-19 pandemic.

For example, include students who would have been living in this college/university student housing GQ on April 1, 2020. College students should be counted where they usually live, even if they were temporarily staying elsewhere while their school was closed because of COVID-19.

[Note: Federal prisoners detained in state and local correctional facilities (GQ Type Codes 103, 104, 105, and 203), are counted by the particular federal agencies that have jurisdiction over those federal detainees. Therefore, any known federal detainees should not be reported for these GQ Type Codes.]

Group Quarters Review is provided under Title 13 U.S.C. Section 6. The purpose of the 2020 Post-Census Group Quarters Review is to allow governmental units to request a review of their official 2020 Census results, specifically those for the population in Group Quarters. Information collected includes name, address, date of birth or age, and race or ethnicity. Information provided to us is permitted under the Privacy Act of 1974 (5 U.S.C. § 552a) and may be shared with other Census Bureau systems. Disclosure of this information is also subject to all of the published routine uses as identified in the Privacy Act System of Records for the 2020 Decennial Census Program.

This review is voluntary. Failure to do so will result in the Census Bureau's inability to review population counts for group quarters in which you believe there was an undercount during the 2020 Census. Information is collected and reviewed with U.S. Census Bureau staff, contractors, and non-Census sponsors that are authorized and have a need to know. Information is collected and reviewed by staff (employees and contractors) that have received training on privacy and confidentiality policies and practices.

2020 Census Group Quarters Definitions and Codes (For Data Collection Only)

Group Quarters:

A group quarters is a place where people live or stay, in a group living arrangement that is owned or managed by an entity or organization. These services may include custodial or medical care as well as other types of assistance, and residency is commonly not a typical household-type living arrangement. People living in group quarters are usually not related to each other.

Federal Detention Centers:

Stand alone, generally multi-level, federally operated correctional facilities that provide “short-term” confinement or custody of adults pending adjudication or sentencing. These facilities may hold pretrial detainees, holdovers, sentenced offenders, and Immigration and Customs Enforcement (ICE) inmates, formerly called Immigration and Naturalization Service (INS) inmates. These facilities include: Metropolitan Correctional Centers (MCCs), Metropolitan Detention Centers (MDCs), Federal Detention Centers (FDCs), Bureau of Indian Affairs Detention Centers, ICE Service Processing Centers, and ICE contract detention facilities.

Federal and State Prisons:

Adult correctional facilities where people convicted of crimes serve their sentences. Common names include: prison, penitentiary, correctional institution, federal or state correctional facility, and conservation camp. The prisons are classified by two types of control: (1) "federal" (operated by or for the Bureau of Prisons of the Department of Justice) and (2) "state." Residents who are forensic patients or criminally insane are classified on the basis of where they resided at the time of enumeration. Patients in hospitals (units, wings, or floors) operated by or for federal or state correctional authorities are counted in the prison population. Other forensic patients will be enumerated in psychiatric hospital units and floors for long-term non-acute patients. This category may include privately operated correctional facilities.

Local Jails and Other Municipal Confinement Facilities:

Correctional facilities operated by or for counties, cities, and American Indian and Alaska Native tribal governments. These facilities hold adults detained pending adjudication and/or people committed after adjudication. This category also includes work farms and camps used to hold people awaiting trial or serving time on relatively short sentences. Residents who are forensic patients or criminally insane are classified on the basis of where they resided at the time of enumeration. Patients in hospitals (units, wings, or floors) operated by or for local correctional authorities are counted in the jail population. Other forensic patients will be enumerated in psychiatric hospital units and floors for long-term non-acute patients. This category may include privately operated correctional facilities.

Correctional Residential Facilities:

These are community-based facilities operated for correctional purposes. The facility residents may be allowed extensive contact with the community, such as for employment or attending school, but are obligated to occupy the premises at night.

Examples are halfway houses, restitution centers, and prerelease, work release, and study centers.

Military Disciplinary Barracks and Jails:

Correctional facilities managed by the military to hold those awaiting trial or convicted of crimes.

Group Homes for Juveniles (non-correctional):

Includes community-based group living arrangements for youth in residential settings that are able to accommodate three or more clients of a service provider. The group home provides room and board and services, including behavioral, psychological, or social programs. Generally, clients are not related to the care giver or to each other.

Examples are maternity homes for unwed mothers, orphanages, and homes for abused and neglected children in need of services. Group homes for juveniles do not include residential treatment centers for juveniles or group homes operated by or for correctional authorities.

Residential Treatment Centers for Juveniles (non-correctional):

Includes facilities that primarily serve youth that provide services on-site in a highly structured live-in environment for the treatment of drug/alcohol abuse, mental illness, and emotional/behavioral disorders. These facilities are staffed 24-hours a day. The focus of a residential treatment center is on the treatment program. Residential treatment centers for juveniles do not include facilities operated by or for correctional authorities.

Correctional Facilities Intended for Juveniles:

Includes specialized facilities that provide strict confinement for its residents and detain juveniles awaiting adjudication, commitment or placement, and/or those being held for diagnosis or classification. Also included are correctional facilities where residents are permitted contact with the community, for purposes such as attending school or holding a job.

Examples are residential training schools and farms, reception and diagnostic centers, group homes operated by or for correctional authorities, detention centers, and boot camps for juvenile delinquents.

Nursing Facilities/Skilled-Nursing Facilities:

Includes facilities licensed to provide medical care with seven day, twenty-four hour coverage for people requiring long-term non-acute care. People in these facilities require nursing care, regardless of age. Either of these types of facilities may be referred to as nursing homes.

Mental (Psychiatric) Hospitals and Psychiatric Units in Other Hospitals:

Includes psychiatric hospitals, units and floors for long-term non-acute care patients. The primary function of the hospital, unit, or floor is to provide diagnostic and treatment services for long-term non-acute patients who have psychiatric-related illness. All patients are enumerated in this category.

Hospitals with Patients Who Have No Usual Home Elsewhere:

Includes hospitals if they have any patients who have no exit or disposition plan, or who are known as "boarder patients" or "boarder babies." All hospitals are eligible for inclusion in this category except psychiatric hospitals, units, wings or floors operated by federal, state or local correctional authorities. Patients in hospitals operated by these correctional authorities will be counted in the prison or jail population. Psychiatric units and hospice units in hospitals are also excluded. Only patients with no usual home elsewhere are enumerated in this category.

In-Patient Hospice Facilities:

Includes in-patient hospice facilities (both free-standing and units in hospitals) that provide palliative, comfort, and supportive care for the terminally ill patient and their families. Only patients with no usual home elsewhere are tabulated in this category.

Military Treatment Facilities with Assigned Patients:

These facilities include military hospitals and medical centers with active duty patients assigned to the facility. Only these patients are enumerated in this category.

Residential Schools for People with Disabilities:

Includes schools that provide the teaching of skills for daily living, education programs, and care for students with disabilities in a live-in environment.

Examples are residential schools for the physically or developmentally disabled.

College/University Student Housing (owned/leased/managed by a college/university):

Includes residence halls, and other buildings, including apartment-style student housing, designed primarily to house college and university students in a group living arrangement either on or off campus. These facilities are owned, leased, or managed by a college, university, or seminary. Fraternity and sorority housing recognized by the college or university are included as college student housing.

Students attending the U.S. Naval Academy, the U.S. Military Academy (West Point), the U.S. Coast Guard Academy, and the U.S. Air Force Academy are counted in military group quarters.

College/University Student Housing (owned/leased/managed by a private company/agency):

Includes buildings designed primarily to house college and university students in a group living arrangement either on or off campus. These facilities are owned, leased, or managed by a private company or agency (i.e., not owned/leased/managed by a college/university). This category includes apartment-style student housing. Residents typically enter into “by the bed” leases (i.e., single-liability leases).

Military Quarters:

These facilities include military personnel living in barracks (including “open” barrack transient quarters) and dormitories and military ships. Patients assigned to Military Treatment Facilities and people being held in military disciplinary barracks and jails are not enumerated in this category. Patients in Military Treatment Facilities with no usual home elsewhere are not enumerated in this category.

Emergency and Transitional Shelters (with Sleeping Facilities) for People Experiencing Homelessness:

Facilities where people experiencing homelessness stay overnight. These include:

- 1) shelters that operate on a first-come, first-serve basis where people must leave in the morning and have no guaranteed bed for the next night;

2) shelters where people know that they have a bed for a specified period of time (even if they leave the building every day); and

3) shelters that provide temporary shelter during extremely cold weather (such as churches). This category does not include shelters that operate only in the event of a natural disaster.

Examples are emergency and transitional shelters; missions; hotels and motels used to shelter people experiencing homelessness; shelters for children who are runaways, neglected or experiencing homelessness; and similar places known to have people experiencing homelessness.

Group Homes Intended for Adults:

Group homes are community-based group living arrangements in residential settings that are able to accommodate three or more clients of a service provider. The group home provides room and board and services, including behavioral, psychological, or social programs. Generally, clients are not related to the care giver or to each other. Group homes do not include residential treatment centers or facilities operated by or for correctional authorities.

Residential Treatment Centers for Adults:

Residential facilities that provide treatment on-site in a highly structured live-in environment for the treatment of drug/alcohol abuse, mental illness, and emotional/behavioral disorders. They are staffed 24-hours a day. The focus of a residential treatment center is on the treatment program. Residential treatment centers do not include facilities operated by or for correctional authorities.

Workers' Group Living Quarters and Job Corps Centers:

Includes facilities such as dormitories, bunkhouses, and similar types of group living arrangements for agricultural and non-agricultural workers. This category also includes facilities that provide a full-time, year-round residential program offering a vocational training and employment program that helps young people 16-to-24 years old learn a trade, earn a high school diploma or GED and get help finding a job.

Examples are group living quarters at migratory farmworker camps, construction workers' camps, Job Corps centers and vocational training facilities.

Living Quarters for Victims of Natural Disasters:

These are temporary group living arrangements established as a result of natural disasters.

and Targeted Non-Sheltered Outdoor Locations (706).
