

Request for Non-substantive Change to the American Community Survey and the Puerto Rico Community Survey
Revisions to the Group Quarters Materials
OMB Control No. 0607-0810
U.S. Department of Commerce
U.S. Census Bureau

Purpose

The American Community Survey (ACS) is an ongoing monthly survey that collects detailed housing and socioeconomic data from a sample of about 3.5 million addresses in the United States and about 36,000 addresses in Puerto Rico each year. The ACS also collects detailed socioeconomic data from a sample of about 170,000 residents living in group quarters (GQ) facilities in the United States and Puerto Rico where it is known as the Puerto Rico Community Survey (PRCS). Resulting tabulations from this data collection are provided on a yearly basis. The ACS allows the U.S. Census Bureau to provide timely and relevant housing and socioeconomic statistics, even for low levels of geography.

Background:

The current ACS information collection was approved on June 6, 2022, for three years, with an expiration date of June 30, 2025. This non-substantive change request is to revise the Group Quarters (GQ) facility-level and respondent-level materials for both stateside and Puerto Rico beginning in 2023. The ACS plans to implement these changes to more clearly communicate and address respondent concerns, with the goal of gaining interview cooperation.

The ACS GQ data collection process includes mailing letters and an informational brochure to each facility in sample monthly, as well as providing the sampled residents with an introductory letter and brochure. Also, included are letters thanking the facility's point of contact and resident for their participation. Many of these materials have not been revised since 2016.

Based on research related to communications theory, survey research, and plain language and design principles, the introductory letters, and the letters used by the regional offices to follow up with unsuccessful facility and resident-level interviews, were updated to address concerns, such as look and feel, language, and design. First, the look and feel of the letters were updated to include more white space and reduce text, leaving only essential information. Secondly, the language of the introductory letters was updated to be more concise and accessible. Finally, the design of the introductory letters included updates to the graphics and fonts. The reason for these changes were to gain increased facility and resident-level response.

The GQ informational brochures were also updated with a new look and feel, new pictures and plainer and clearer language. The overall look and feel of the brochures were updated to have less text, more white space, and current pictures to match the new text in the brochure. The pictures were changed to a more updated style. Additionally, the language was consolidated and updated to plainer and clearer language.

The GQ facility-level and respondent-level thank you bookmarks will replace the thank you letters. By making it smaller and colorful, the goal is to attract more attention than just another letter that, learned from informal feedback, may likely be ignored. Research indicates that with a colorful bookmark there is a better chance that it will be read and clearly understood, and hopefully we will gain more cooperation.

Dear <<F_FACILITYMANAGER>>:

Recently, a U.S. Census Bureau representative, <<FRNAME>>, contacted you regarding the American Community Survey. I understand that you have concerns with granting our representative access to interview a sample of residents who live or stay in your facility.

Participating in the American Community Survey is important and required by law under Title 13, U. S. Code, Sections 141, 193, 221 and 223. Section 223 authorizes representatives of the Census Bureau entry to your facility to interview a sample of the residents.

Federal employees are sworn by oath (under penalty of law) to keep your information confidential. We are not permitted to publicly release your responses in a way that could identify your facility or any of its residents (Title 13, U.S. Code, Section 9). The Census Bureau conducts background investigations on all employees. This includes employment, education, residence, and law enforcement checks as well as a credit check.

The American Community Survey is the premier source of current data about our people, housing, and economy. Selected residents will be asked to respond to the survey and provide information about various topics such as education and employment.

We will contact you again in a few days, or you can contact <<FRNAME>> at <<FRPHONE>> or <<FEMAIL>>. Hopefully this addresses your concerns, and you will grant our representative access to your facility. If you have any questions, please call <<OFFICEPHONE>>.

FAQs for Facility Administrators

United States® Census Bureau

ACS-51(GQ)(F) Issued June 2023

What is the American Community Survey?

The American Community Survey (ACS) collects demographic, social, economic, and housing data every year. The ACS is conducted in all U.S. states and in Puerto Rico where it is called the Puerto Rico Community Survey.

The U.S. Census Bureau selects a sample of household addresses and a sample of group quarters facilities each year to participate in the survey.

Some examples of group quarters facilities are college dorms, nursing facilities, and military quarters, to name a few.

Is this a legitimate survey?

Yes. The Census Bureau conducts the American Community Survey under the authority of Title 13, U.S. Code, Sections 141 and 193.

The U.S. Office of Management and Budget (OMB) approved this survey. The OMB approval number is 0607-0810.

If this number were not provided, we could not conduct this survey.

Do we have to participate in the survey?

Yes. Title 13, U.S. Code, Section 223 makes it mandatory for facility managers to provide facility information and access to residents to conduct the survey interviews.

Title 13, U.S. Code, Section 221 makes it mandatory for the residents to participate in the survey and imposes a penalty for not responding.

What is my responsibility as a facility manager?

- Provide us a list of residents currently staying at your facility. We will select a sample of residents from the list to take part in the survey.

- Allow us to conduct survey interviews with the residents.
- Inform us if any accommodations need to be made to conduct interviews at your facility.

How do residents respond to the survey?

A resident can complete the survey (1) in person, (2) by phone, OR (3) on paper.

If the resident chooses to respond by completing the paper questionnaire, the Census Bureau representative will pick up the completed survey at an agreed upon time.

At this time the survey cannot be completed by email or online.

Are residents who are unable to complete the survey by themselves required to participate?

Yes. A resident may designate another person, such as a relative, guardian, or facility administrator to help them.

To produce accurate results, it is important that ALL people, including people with cognitive disabilities, answer the survey.

Please speak with your Census Bureau representative to resolve any issues.

What are some benefits of participating in the American Community Survey?

Your local government can use the survey data to determine funding for:

- Home and community-based services for people with disabilities
- Financial assistance with utilities, health care, and other needs

Nonprofit organizations and businesses in your area can use the data to:

- Obtain grants for community development programs
- Develop job training programs for the local workforce

To learn more about how people use ACS data to help communities, visit: census.gov/acs-data-stories

Will the Census Bureau protect our privacy?

Yes. The Census Bureau is required by law to protect the privacy of every respondent. This includes information you provide as a facility manager and information provided by all of the sampled residents.

Federal law protects your privacy and keeps survey answers confidential (Title 13, U.S. Code, Section 9.)

How are the survey data protected?

Per the Federal Cybersecurity Enhancement Act of 2015, your data are protected from cybersecurity risks through screening of the systems that transmit your data.

The Census Bureau is not permitted to publicly release responses in a way that could identify a respondent. By law, the Census Bureau can only use responses to produce statistics.

Disclosure of the information provided to us is permitted under the Privacy Act of 1974 (Title 5, U.S. Code, Section 552a) and may be shared with Census Bureau staff for work-related purposes.

Disclosure of this information is also subject to the published routine uses as identified in the Privacy Act System of Record Notice COMMERCE/CENSUS-5, Decennial Census Programs.

Why did the Census Bureau select this facility?

To provide an accurate picture of your community, group quarters facilities are randomly selected each year from a list of all group quarters in your area.

Larger facilities may be selected to participate in the survey more than once a year.

For example, different dorms at a large university may be selected to participate at different times in the same year.

How long will it take to participate?

We estimate it will take about 15 minutes for the facility survey and about 25 minutes for the resident survey.
