Privacy Act Statement Collection and Use of Personal Information

Sections 205(a), (c)(2), (4), (5), and 233 of the Social Security Act, as amended, allow us to collect this information. Furnishing us this information is voluntary. However, failing to provide all or part of the information may affect the accuracy of your earnings record.

We will use the information to correct your earnings record. We may also share your information for the following purposes, called routine uses:

1. To employers or former employers, including State Social Security administrators, for correcting and reconstructing State employee earnings records and for Social Security purposes.
2. To officers and employees of Federal, State or local agencies upon written request in accordance with the Internal Revenue Code (IRC) U.S.C. 6103(I)(7)), tax return information (e.g., information with respect to net earnings from self-employment, wages, payments of retirement income which have been disclosed to the Social Security Administration, and business and employment addresses) for purposes of, and to the extent necessary in, determining an individual's eligibility for, or the correct amount of, benefits under certain programs listed in the IRC.

In addition, we may share this information in accordance with the Privacy Act and other Federal laws. For example, where authorized, we may use and disclose this information in computer matching programs, in which our records are compared with other records to establish or verify a person's eligibility for Federal benefit programs and for repayment of incorrect or delinquent debts under these programs.

A list of additional routine uses is available in our Privacy Act System of Records Notices (SORN) 60-0059, entitled Earnings Recording and Self-Employment Income System. Additional information and a full listing of all our SORNs and applicable routine uses are available on our website at www.socialsecurity.gov/foia/bluebook.

Earnings Record

Review your Earnings Record

Your benefits are based on your earnings. If our records are wrong, you may not receive all the benefits to which you're entitled.

Use your own records to make sure our information is correct, and that we've recorded each year you worked. If you worked for more than one employer during any year, or if you had both earnings and self-employment income, we combined your earnings for the year.

Review your earnings record carefully...

You, your employer and Social Security share responsibility for the accuracy of your earnings record. Since you began working, we recorded your reported earnings under your name and Social Security number. We have updated your record each time your employer (or you, if you're self-employed) reported your earnings.

Remember, it's your earnings, not the amount of taxes you paid or the number of credits you've earned, that determine your benefit amount. When we figure that amount, we base it on your average earnings over your lifetime. If our records are wrong, you may not receive all the benefits to which you're entitled.

Review this chart carefully...

Use your own records to make sure our information is correct and that we've recorded each year you worked. You're the only person who can look at the earnings chart and know whether it is complete and correct.

Some or all of your earnings from last year may not be shown on your Statement. It could be that we still were processing last year's earnings report when your Statement was prepared. Note: If you worked for more than one employer during any year, or if you had both earnings and self-employment income, we combined your earnings for the year

Limits on Taxable Earnings for Social Security

There's a limit on the amount of earnings on which you pay Social Security taxes each year. The limit usually increases yearly. Earnings above the limit will not appear on your earnings chart as Social Security earnings. (For Medicare taxes, the maximum earnings amount began rising in 1991. Since 1994, all of your earnings are taxed for Medicare.)

Note: Currently, you and your employer each pay a 6.2 percent Social Security tax on up to $137,700 of your earnings and a 1.45 percent Medicare tax on all your earnings. If you are self-employed, you pay the combined employee and employer amount, which is a 12.4 percent Social Security tax on up to $137,700 of your net earnings and a 2.9 percent Medicare tax on your entire net earnings. If you have earned income of more than $200,000 ($250,000 for married couples filing jointly), you must pay 0.9 percent more in Medicare taxes.

Why would earnings be missing from my record?

If the earnings missing from your Social Security record are for the current year or last year, you don't need to worry. Because these earnings are recent, we may not have recorded them yet. They should appear on a later Statement.

However, earnings could be missing from your record for earlier years for one of the following reasons:

- Your employer reported your earnings using the wrong name or Social Security number.
- Your employer reported your earnings incorrectly.
- You got married or divorced and changed your name, but never reported the change to Social Security.
- You worked using a Social Security number that didn't belong to you.

At this time, we cannot give you information about your wages for the last year (or this year) because of the time needed to receive and process reports.

It normally takes up to a year after the end of the year for which wages were reported for the amount to appear on your records. (For example, wages paid in 2018 may not appear on our records until early 2021).

To be sure your record is correct, you can review your earnings statement when these earnings become available. Remember to review 2019 earnings no earlier than a year after the earnings year.

^ What will I need to request a self-employment correction?

To request a earnings correction for years containing self-employment you will need proof of your correct earnings.

The best types of proof of earnings that will help us correct your earnings record are:

- A copy of your Form 1040, Schedule SE, and either a Schedule C or F,

AND

- Proof that your tax return was timely filed (i.e., for Social Security purposes within 3 years, 3 months, and 15 days after close of taxable year). For example, a copy of an IRS date stamp on your tax return (i.e. Form 1040), or a cancelled check or money order receipt payable to Internal Revenue Service (IRS).

If you don't have any of the documents listed above, please call or visit the IRS, your tax preparer, or any Social Security office; they might be able to give you other types of proof that we can use to correct your earnings record.

2.4. Earnings Corrections Overview

The screenshot shows the 'my Social Security' website interface. At the top right, there is a 'Sign Out' link. Below the header, there are navigation links for Home, Messages (with a red notification badge), Preferences, and Security. A breadcrumb trail shows 'Home > Earnings Record > Request a Correction'. The main heading is 'Earnings Record', followed by a sub-heading 'Request an Earnings Record Correction'. The content explains that if the Earnings Record is incorrect, a correction request can be submitted online, typically processed within 90 days. It lists what is needed: details about correct earnings and employer, evidence or proof of correct earnings (like a W2), and contact information. A light blue callout box contains a 'PLEASE NOTE' and a link 'What kind of evidence can I provide?'. Below, it lists corrections that can't be processed online: self-employment earnings, current or prior year requests, and requests for years prior to 1978. A link 'Contact Us' is provided for those cases. At the bottom, there is a link 'Correcting self-employment earnings...' and two buttons: 'Begin a Request for Correction' and 'Cancel'.

2.4.1. Earnings Correction Overview: 'Current and prior year' - Info modal

The screenshot shows an information modal window titled 'Earnings from the Current or prior year...' with a close button (X) in the top right corner. The text inside the modal reads: 'If your Social Security record is missing earnings for the current year or last year, you don't need to worry. It may just be the case that we have not recorded them yet. If you worked for more than one employer, it's possible that wages from some employers have been recorded, but wages from other employers have not yet been posted. They should appear on a later Statement. It normally takes up to a year after the end of the year for which wages were reported for the amount to appear on your records. (For example, wages paid in 2018 may not appear on our records until early 2021). To be sure your record is correct, you can review your earnings statement when these earnings become available. Remember to review 2019 earnings no earlier than a year after the earnings year.' At the bottom left of the modal, there is a blue 'Close' button.

i In order to complete processing of your earnings correction request, you will need to submit evidence to support your claim. Correction Requests submitted without evidence could take significantly longer than 90 days to make a determination.

The best types of proof that will help us correct your earnings record are either:

- Copies of your Form W-2 (except copy A) for the year(s) you believe are wrong. A photocopy is acceptable; or
- A signed statement from your employer or the person who keeps your employer's records; we need the original statement.

If you do not have any of the proof of earnings listed above, please submit two items from the list below:

- Exact copy of Federal or State income tax returns;
- Pay envelopes or statements;
- Unemployment compensation award letters; or
- Union records of dues and wages.

Whatever evidence you submit should include your employer's information from the year containing incorrect earnings, the correct earnings information, and evidence of the correct earnings (W2, tax records, etc.) if available.

Proof of Correct Earnings ✕

i In order to complete processing of your earnings correction request, you will need to submit evidence to support your claim. Correction Requests submitted without evidence could take significantly longer than 90 days to make a determination.

The best types of proof that will help us correct your earnings record are either:

- Copies of your Form W-2 (except copy A) for the year(s) you believe are wrong. A photocopy is acceptable; or
- A signed statement from your employer or the person who keeps your employer’s records; we need the original statement.

If you do not have any of the proof of earnings listed above, please submit two items from the list below:

- Exact copy of Federal or State income tax returns;
- Pay envelopes or statements;
- Unemployment compensation award letters; or
- Union records of dues and wages.

Whatever evidence you submit should include your employer’s information from the year containing incorrect earnings, the correct earnings information, and evidence of the correct earnings (W2, tax records, etc.) if available.

The screenshot displays the 'my Social Security' website interface. At the top left is the Social Security Administration logo and the text 'my Social Security'. On the top right is a 'Sign Out' link. Below this is a navigation bar with icons and labels for 'Home', 'Messages' (with a red notification bubble containing the number '2'), 'Preferences', and 'Security'. A breadcrumb trail below the navigation bar shows 'Home > Earnings Record > Request a Correction'. The main content area is titled 'Earnings Record' and contains a red-bordered error message box. The message text reads: 'We can't process your request online right now, please try again later. If the problem continues, please contact us to resolve the issue.' Below the error message is a blue 'Exit' button.

Earnings Record

Review your Earnings Record

Your benefits are based on your earnings. If our records are wrong, you may not receive all the benefits to which you're entitled.

Use your own records to make sure our information is correct, and that we've recorded each year you worked. If you worked for more than one employer during any year, or if you had both earnings and self-employment income, we combined your earnings for the year.
