5. The orientation process is organized into three key content areas. Rank the areas in order from the content area you would like to spend the Most time to the content area you would like to spend the Least time, based on your current understanding and experience.

Guiding Principles and Policies: Serves to orient new members to the purpose, roles, and guiding policies of the Board and Board members.

Global Landscape of International Food and Agriculture Development: Serves to orient new members to the global landscape of international food and agriculture to include, for example, introduction to USAID offices and units, overview of key strategies such as the Global Food Security Strategy (GFSS), New Partnerships Initiative, and Private Sector Engagement Policy, and review of key BIFAD public meetings and recent technical products.

Operationalizing Systems: Serves to prepare new members to begin working within the established systems for communications, workflow, and logistics of serving on the board to include, for example, overview of the role of the BIFAD Support Contract team, instructions on navigating internal knowledge management and communication systems, and guidance for accessing logistical support.

6. Is there anything else you would like to share with the team regarding the orientation process?
