

Sorry I missed you...

Your household was selected to participate in an important national survey. If selected, you could receive $30 for completing the interview.

We will try you again in a few days.

Sincerely,

Interviewer for RTI International, a nonprofit that administers this study for the U.S. Department of Health and Human Services

Para obtener información en
español, visite
nsduhweb.rti.org

Your household was randomly chosen to participate in an important study sponsored by the U.S. Department of Health and Human Services.

Your participation will help shape your community's health services. You can answer the questions in person or online.

To participate in person, answer the door when the interviewer returns.

They will help you through the process.

To participate online, find the letter or postcard mailed to your address and follow the instructions included.