

Instructions for Application for Carrier Documentation

Department of Homeland Security
U.S. Citizenship and Immigration Services

USCIS
Form I-131A
OMB No. 1615-0135
Expires 11/30/2024

What Is the Purpose of Form I-131A?

United States laws impose penalties on carriers (airlines, ships, etc.) that bring to the United States foreign nationals who are not in possession of a valid passport and any required visa. If you are a lawful permanent resident (LPR) or conditional permanent resident (conditional LPR) of the United States traveling overseas temporarily, you ordinarily may use your valid Permanent Resident Card (commonly called a Green Card) or a Reentry Permit (in place of a visa) as documentation of your eligibility to return to the United States. If you do not have a valid, unexpired Permanent Resident Card or Reentry Permit (for example, your card or permit was lost, stolen, destroyed, or damaged), you may experience difficulties when you attempt to return to the United States.

If you are not an LPR or a conditional LPR, but you received a Form I-512/Form I-512L, Advance Parole Document, or Form I-766, Employment Authorization Document (EAD), with travel endorsement, and your document was lost, stolen, destroyed, or damaged while you are traveling overseas temporarily, you also may experience difficulties when you attempt to board your carrier and return to the United States.

This application allows foreign nationals in these situations to apply for Carrier Documentation (Transportation Letter or Boarding Foil). If the Department of Homeland Security (DHS) determines that you remain an LPR or conditional LPR, or had previously received an Advance Parole Document on a Form I-512 or Form I-512L or travel endorsement on an Employment Authorization Document that is still valid, DHS may, as a matter of discretion on a case-by-case basis, provide a Carrier Documentation. The Carrier Documentation may be a foil placed in your passport or a boarding letter. If DHS provides Carrier Documentation, you may present the documentation to a carrier destined for the United States. Generally, Carrier Documentation is valid for 30 days from the date of issuance.

NOTE: If your Advance Parole Document is a Boarding Foil issued by the Department of State and you are outside of the United States, you should immediately report to the Department of State Consular Office where that foil was issued if your travel document containing that foil was lost, stolen, destroyed, or damaged. You should not submit this application to replace a Boarding Foil.

Warnings

1. Carrier Documentation only allows you to demonstrate to the commercial carrier that you are not required to provide a visa or comparable document at the time that you apply for admission or otherwise seek lawful entry into the United States at a U.S. Port-of-Entry (POE); it does not guarantee that you will be allowed into the United States. U.S. Customs and Border Protection (CBP) will perform all the required inspection procedures, including determining admissibility or ability to enter, upon your arrival at a POE.
2. DHS may revoke or terminate your Carrier Documentation at any time, with or without notice. That revocation or termination could have implications for your travel.

Replacing or Renewing Your Permanent Resident Card

If you no longer have your Permanent Resident Card, or it has expired, you must apply for a new Permanent Resident Card. Receiving Carrier Documentation does not take the place of obtaining a new Permanent Resident Card. To apply for a replacement of your Permanent Resident Card, you must file Form I-90, Application to Replace Permanent Resident Card, with U.S. Citizenship and Immigration Services (USCIS). Visit the USCIS website at www.uscis.gov/I-90 for more information.

Replacing Your Form I-512/I-512L, Advance Parole Document, or Form I-766, EAD With Travel Endorsement

If you no longer have your Form I-512/I-512L, Advance Parole Document, or Form I-766, Employment Authorization Document, with travel endorsement and you choose to replace it after you return to the United States, you must file Form I-131 and/or Form I-765 with USCIS. Receiving Carrier Documentation to facilitate travel back to the United States does not take the place of obtaining a new Form I-512/I-512L, Advance Parole Document, or Form I-766, EAD with travel endorsement. Visit the USCIS website at www.uscis.gov/I-765 and www.uscis.gov/I-131 for more information.

Who May File Form I-131A?

You may file Form I-131A to apply for Carrier Documentation if:

1. You have been lawfully admitted to the United States as a LPR or conditional LPR;
2. You have not lost LPR or conditional LPR status by abandoning that status or by removal from the United States;
3. You have traveled abroad temporarily, and without any intent of abandoning your LPR or conditional LPR status;
4. You wish to return to the United States using a valid Permanent Resident Card after an absence of less than 1 year or using a valid Reentry Permit after an absence of less than 2 years; and
5. You are not in possession of a valid, unexpired Permanent Resident Card or Reentry Permit (for example, your card or permit was lost, stolen, destroyed, or damaged) or other document authorizing you to apply for admission to, or otherwise seek lawful entry into, the United States.

You also may file Form I-131A if:

1. You received Form I-512/Form I-512L, Advance Parole Document, or Form I-766, Employment Authorization Document (with travel endorsement);
2. The Form I-512/Form I-512L, Advance Parole Document, or Form I-766, Employment Authorization Document (with travel endorsement), has not been revoked;
3. You wish to return to the United States after a temporary absence before your Form I-512/Form I-512L, Advance Parole Document, or Form I-766, Employment Authorization Document (with travel endorsement), expires; and
4. You are not in possession of a valid, unexpired Form I-512/Form I-512L, Advance Parole Document, or Form I-766, Employment Authorization Document (with travel endorsement), because it was lost, stolen, destroyed, or damaged.

Who is NOT eligible to receive Carrier Documentation?

DHS retains the discretion to determine, on a case-by-case basis, to whom it is appropriate to provide Carrier Documentation. Some of the reasons that DHS may decline to provide you with Carrier Documentation are:

1. You are physically present in the United States;
2. You are no longer a valid LPR or conditional LPR of the United States; or
3. You were issued Carrier Documentation and it is still valid, unless the prior documentation was returned to DHS or was lost, stolen, destroyed, or damaged;
4. Your Form I-512/Form I-512L, Advance Parole Document, or Form I-766, Employment Authorization Document (with travel endorsement), has expired, will expire, or is revoked, before you return to the United States; or

NOTE: Form I-131A should not be used to apply for or replace Humanitarian Parole. Please see the Instructions for Form I-131 if you seek to apply for Humanitarian Parole.

5. Your Advance Parole Document is a Boarding Foil issued by the Department of State and you are outside of the United States. If your travel document containing that foil was lost, stolen, destroyed, or damaged, you should immediately report to the Department of State Consular Office where that foil was issued.

Expired Permanent Resident Card

If you have an expired Permanent Resident Card (with a 10-year validity period) or Conditional Permanent Resident Card (with a 2-year validity period) and valid Form I-797, Notice of Action, for either Form I-751, Petition to Remove Conditions on Residence, or Form I-829, Petition By Entrepreneur to Remove Conditions, showing you timely filed Form I-751 or I-829 (filed by or before the expiration date shown on the existing Conditional Permanent Resident Card).

You may use these documents to board a carrier to the United States, and you do not need to file Form I-131A.

You should contact your carrier to confirm they will let you board with these documents; however, if they will not, you should file Form I-131A.

Returning Resident Visa

As an alternative to Form I-131A, it may be appropriate for you to obtain a returning resident (SB-1) visa as documentation of your LPR or conditional LPR status. You may contact the nearest U.S. Embassy or Consulate (or visit its website), to obtain information about seeking a returning resident (SB-1) immigrant visa. If you apply for and receive an SB-1 visa, you do not need to file Form I-131A.

A legal guardian may also sign for a mentally incompetent person. If the request is not signed or if the requisite signature on the request is not valid, USCIS will reject the request. See 8 CFR 103.2(a)(7)(ii)(A). If USCIS accepts a request for adjudication and determines that it has a deficient signature, USCIS will deny the request.

Validity of Signatures. USCIS will consider a photocopied, faxed, or scanned copy of the original handwritten signature valid for filing purposes. The photocopy, fax, or scan must be of the original document containing the handwritten ink signature.

Filing Fee. See Form G-1055, available at www.uscis.gov/forms, for specific information about the fees applicable to this form.

Evidence. At the time of filing, you must submit all evidence and supporting documents listed in the What Evidence Should You Submit section of these Instructions.

USCIS may require that you appear for an interview or provide biometrics (fingerprints, photograph, and/or signature) at any time to verify your identity, obtain additional information, and conduct background and security checks, including a check of criminal history records maintained by the Federal Bureau of Investigation (FBI), before making a decision on your application or petition. After USCIS receives your application and ensures it is complete, we will inform you if you need to attend a biometric services appointment. If an appointment is necessary, the notice will provide you the location of your local or designated USCIS Application Support Center (ASC) and the date and time of your appointment or, if you are currently overseas, instruct you to contact a U.S. Embassy, U.S. Consulate, or USCIS office outside the United States to set up an appointment.

If you are required to provide biometrics, at your appointment you must sign an oath reaffirming that:

1. You provided or authorized all information in the application;
2. You reviewed and understood all of the information contained in, and submitted with, your application; and
3. All of this information was complete, true, and correct at the time of filing.

We may request an original document at the time of filing or at any time during processing of an application or petition. If we request an original document from you, we will return it to you when we are done.

NOTE: If you submit original documents when not required or requested by USCIS, we may destroy your original documents.

Translations. If you submit a document with information in a foreign language, you must also submit a full English translation. The translator must sign a certification that the English language translation is complete and accurate, and that he or she is competent to translate from the foreign language into English. The certification must also include the translator's signature, printed name, the signature date, and the translator's contact information.
