

each. Does this approach appropriately balance the need to issue RUSH funds quickly with the need to ensure the disbursement of funds reflect actual need?

(5) The initial allocation will be an amount equal to the lesser of $3,000,000 in the case of a State and $1,000,000 in the case of a local government or the amount determined by multiplying the number of persons experiencing sheltered or unsheltered homelessness (based on the most recent Point-in-Time count) in counties or local municipalities for which the threshold for making a first RUSH allocation is met by the Fair Market Rent for a 1-BR apartment in those areas (see Section II.A). Are there other formula factors that HUD should consider for the initial allocation amount?

(6) The Notice proposes an allocation based on the sum of two formulas, one estimating the impact on the existing population experiencing homelessness and the second estimating the potential need of “new” people experiencing homelessness (see Section II.A and B). For communities that meet the threshold for a second allocation, are there other formula factors HUD should consider in determining the second allocation amount?

(7) HUD’s plan is to allocate RUSH funding to States or local governments with the capacity to address the needs of people experiencing homelessness. What objective criteria should HUD establish to determine the appropriate grantee for RUSH allocations?

(8) How can the RUSH allocation methodology be modified to allocate resources equitably and adequately to address declared disaster areas, particularly in cases where a local government does not meet the eligibility or threshold requirements for an allocation but is most impacted by the disaster?

(9) In addition to data collected as part of the CAPER, what additional data and information should HUD collect to ensure that HUD and other stakeholders have an adequate picture of the performance and outcomes of RUSH funding?

(10) How can HUD and other Federal agencies that provide disaster assistance make it easier to comply with RUSH duplication of benefits requirements?

(11) HUD is suspending the consultation and citizen participation requirements listed in Section III.B for the initial allocation of RUSH funds and reducing the public comment to 5 days for the second allocation. Realizing that the goal is to distribute RUSH funds quickly, do these suspension conditions and limitations provide the right balance under the circumstances or should HUD set different conditions or limitations on its suspension of consultation and citizen participation requirements?

(12) To ensure that HUD only provides a second allocation to recipients who are making adequate progress on their initial allocation, are there criteria that HUD should consider when making the second allocation to evaluate a recipient’s capacity and progress in implementing the first allocation?

(13) Are there any pre-award cost conditions described in Section V that would create a significant barrier to response and recovery efforts?

(14) Are there any revisions to this Notice that would add clarity, reduce uncertainty, and assist recipients in distributing RUSH funds and complying with RUSH requirements?

IX. Certifications

For purposes of all ESG funds, including RUSH funds, recipients must submit certifications as required by the McKinney-Vento Act. However, as provided under this Notice, HUD does not require RUSH funds to be matched. Therefore, the certifications required for RUSH are the same standard ESG certifications HUD requires for annual ESG appropriations, except that the match certification is removed. See Section III B.

X. Environmental Impact

A Finding of No Significant Impact (FONSI) with respect to the environment has been made in accordance with HUD regulations at 24 CFR part 50, which implement section 102(2)(C) of the National Environmental Policy Act of 1969 (42 U.S.C. 4332(2)(C)).

The FONSI is available with the posting of this Notice on HUD’s Funding Opportunities web page at: https://www.hud.gov/program_offices/spm/gmomgmt/grantsinfo/fundingopps.

Abstract: The Land Title and Records Office (LTRO) maintains title documents for land that the United States holds in trust or restricted status for individual Indians or Tribes (Indian land), much like counties and other localities maintain title documents for fee land within their jurisdictions. Individuals or entities that are requesting information regarding title documents—either for property they own or for property they seek to lease or encumber—must provide certain information to the LTRO in order for LTRO to accurately identify the property for which they are seeking information. LTRO uses the information provided by individuals or entities in order to identify the property so that they can retrieve the appropriate title documents and produce reports for that property. The collection of information is found in § 150.305, which provides that anyone requesting title documents or reports must provide certain information, such as the name of the reservation where the land is located and the tract number or legal description.
