

APPLICATION TO SERVE AS A SMALL ENTITY REPRESENTATIVE

Consumer Financial Protection Bureau

The Consumer Financial Protection Bureau (CFPB) may obtain input from small businesses and other entities that are likely to be directly affected by a regulation that the CFPB may issue. Under the law, when a rule under development may have a significant economic impact on a substantial number of small entities, representatives from the CFPB, the Chief Counsel for Advocacy of the Small Business Administration, and the Office of Management and Budget's Office of Information and Regulatory Affairs form a Small Business Review Panel (SBREFA Panel or Panel). The Panel then meets with a selected group of representatives from small businesses and other entities.

To prepare for the Panel meeting, the CFPB provides all small entity representatives (SER) with an outline describing the proposal, as well as options or alternatives under consideration. Then, during the Panel meeting, the CFPB reviews these materials with the SER's and solicits information from the representatives. The representatives discuss and provide the Panel with important feedback on the potential costs and other economic impacts of complying with the proposed regulations under consideration and potential regulatory alternatives to minimize these impacts while accomplishing the objectives of applicable statutes. During the Panel meeting or in separate consultation meetings with representatives, the CFPB may also solicit feedback on how the proposals under consideration may impact the cost of credit for small entities and ways to minimize any such impact. Small entity representatives will also have an opportunity to provide feedback through the submission of written comments.

The CFPB is looking for individual representatives of small businesses, small non-profit organizations, or small governments who are interested in participating in future Panel meetings and providing feedback on the potential economic impacts of proposed regulations under consideration. The information provided in this form allows the CFPB to compile a list of representatives from small entities who are potentially eligible to participate in a future Panel.

If you are interested in participating, please provide us with the information listed below. Some respondents may then be contacted and invited to participate in a Panel outreach meeting or other CFPB outreach events.
