In addition to being able to enter and submit new forms, users can validate, certify, post, reject, and view submitted forms. The specific actions that a particular user can perform on a given form will depend on the privileges granted to that user.

FPRS is an Internet-based system, administered at USDA/FNS headquarters, FPRS supports seven regional offices (RO), 59 field offices (FO), and every state, with more than 500 users nationwide.
