Objective

Examine the relationship between attendance in TAP courses and the use of VA Benefits—controlling for demographic and contextual factors (for example, geographic region, age, education, etc.)

Analyze the effect of participation in TAP courses on the long-term outcomes of Veterans in the broad life domains of employment, education, health and social relationships, financial, and overall satisfaction and well-being—in particular, calculate change scores (such as income increase from T1 to T2), and estimate the effect of TAP and other transition activities on those scores, controlling for other factors.

Identify areas of improvement for TAP and the broader transition process to guide training and/or operational activities aimed at enhancing the quality of service provided to transitioning service members, Veterans, their families and caregivers.
