

Welcome Back!

After two years of maximum telework, I am so pleased that most of our staff returned to the physical workspace this month. It has been wonderful to see so many of your faces on the NIH campus!

I know this will be an adjustment for all of us, and I sincerely appreciate your patience as we establish new routines--dusting off our commuting skills, navigating campus construction, and learning how to conduct hybrid meetings. As a reminder, I encourage you to check coronavirus guidance for staff on the NIH intranet site for frequently updated information and talk to your supervisors and teams to explore HHS's new workplace flexibilities.

I invite you to join me and the NLM Future of Work Working Group —as we reimagine what NLM will be like —not only this year, —but in the years to come. Share your ideas through the suggestion box and watch for a survey in your inbox soon.

Dr. Patti Brennan

Please click here to answer a few questions about the return to the physical workspace. (link to Return to Work poll)