Dear BRAIN Community,

Please SAVE the DATE for The 9th Annual BRAIN Initiative Meeting: Open Science, New Tools on Monday, June 12 – Tuesday, June 13, 2023. We remain committed to expanding our BRAIN community in an inclusive manner, and everyone interested in BRAIN and neuroscience research is welcome. This forum will provide space to discuss exciting scientific developments and potential new directions and identify areas for collaboration and research coordination.

We are optimistic we will run a hybrid event with in-person sessions and networking. In the coming months, we will share more information with you, including the in-person and virtual locations and an associated hotel room block. And we will also watch pandemic developments closely as the virus continues to affect communities across the globe.

We look forward to your participation,
