

Survey on Cancer Therapeutic Clinical Trials in Low- and Middle-Income Countries – Survey Invitations

Invitation to individuals/networks to share

Dear...,

The National Cancer Institute's (NCI) Center for Global Health (CGH) is initiating a survey to help us gain a better understanding of the current landscape of cancer therapeutic clinical trials in low- and middle-income countries (LMICs), as defined by the World Bank, and learn about clinicians' thoughts and opinions regarding concrete steps that might be taken to advance clinical trials in LMICs.

We are seeking clinicians with experience participating as a member of a research team in at least one cancer therapeutic clinical trial with at least one recruitment site or facility in a LMIC to participate in a brief, 15-minute survey. Responses will help inform a strategic priority for CGH. The survey is anonymous and voluntary.

We invite you to share the survey [\[hyperlink\]](#) within your networks. The survey is available in Spanish, Portuguese, French, and Arabic. Please find attached a copy of this invitation in each language.

If you have any questions, visit [\[hyperlink-announcement webpage\]](#) or reach out to ncicghclintrialsinlmic@mail.nih.gov. We are grateful for your support in this data collection and dissemination effort.
