

Follow-up Director Survey Consent

Consent to Participate in the Survey for the Colorado Teacher Salary Increase Pilot

The Colorado Department of Early Childhood (CDEC) is conducting a pilot initiative, the Colorado Teacher Salary Increase Pilot, to increase salaries paid to child care teachers. [Intervention centers: Your center was selected through a lottery to receive the salary increase. Control centers: Your center applied to participate in the pilot initiative.] MDRC, a non-profit research firm, and its partners MEF Associates and Decision Information Resources, Inc. (DIR) are conducting an important study to learn about the effects of the pilot initiative and the experiences of center directors/administrators and teachers. This study will look at the effects of the salary increase on teachers' retention, employment, earnings, and economic and psychological well-being. The study also aims to understand how the initiative is implemented, what costs are associated with the initiative, and how the initiative is experienced by the early care and education workforce. This study is funded by the Administration for Children and Families (ACF), of the U.S. Department of Health and Human Services, in partnership with the CDEC.

This survey is part of the study. The information gathered on this survey will be used by the research team to learn more about you, your center, and your experiences as a director/administrator. It will take about 45 minutes to complete. Taking the survey is voluntary. You may choose to not participate or to not answer specific questions. This will not impact any support or funding your center currently receives from ACF or CDEC. If you decide to skip a question, the only consequence is that data will not be included in the results [If you do choose to take the survey, you will receive one Professional Development Information System (PDIS) credit and $40 to thank you for your time].

[INCLUDE IF RELEVANT] The research team may also ask you to participate in an interview, complete a cost workbook, and/or complete an additional follow-up survey. Taking part in these activities is voluntary and you will be offered a small token of appreciation to thank you for your time if you choose to participate.

We may follow up with the early care and education centers and the workforce participating in this study again in the future. If a future study is conducted, you can decide whether you wish to participate or not at that time.

How will my information be protected?

The research team will follow strict rules to protect your information. We use secure computer systems to protect your data from being seen by anyone other than select members of the research team. All research staff working on this project are trained to follow strict data access and security requirements to protect your identity and keep your responses private. Directly identifying information (e.g., names, addresses) will be safeguarded and maintained under controlled conditions. Federal or state laws may require us to show information to government officials (or sponsors) who are responsible for monitoring the safety of this study. We will never share your individual responses or your center in reports about this study. Findings are put into summary reports that contain no names or other information that identifies you or your center.

This study has a Federal Certificate of Confidentiality from the U.S. Department of Health and Human Services. This certificate protects researchers and other staff from being forced to release information that could be used to identify participants in court proceedings. However, we would take necessary action to prevent serious harm to you or someone else, including reporting to authorities. This Certificate of Confidentiality does not mean that the U.S. Secretary of Health and Human Services approves of this project.

This project is subject to the Privacy Act.¹ Your data will be used solely for statistical research and evaluation. Your data may be shared with researchers involved in similar work and with federal agencies that may have additional data that can inform this study.

How will my survey responses be used?

The research team will combine your survey responses with data from administrative records from Colorado-based government organizations listed below. Access to these administrative records will be limited to the authorized research team members and the Linked Information Network of Colorado (LINC) in the Governor's Office of Information Technology. LINC is authorized to link the data and is responsible for making sure that personally identifiable information from the administrative records is never shared with individuals outside of the research team. Administrative records for this study will be collected for up to 10 years and include:

- Early care and education workforce records from the Colorado Department of Early Childhood
- Unemployment Insurance Wage records from the Colorado Department of Labor and Employment
- Data on post-secondary enrollment and degree receipt from the Colorado Department of Higher Education
- Public assistance program participation from the Colorado Department of Human Services
- Other public records that may inform this study

Will my information be used in the future for other studies?

Yes. We will share the data we collected from this study with other researchers to use in their work, but those records will not include your name or other information that could identify you. You will not be asked to give your permission for this use. If you participate in this study, you are agreeing now to share the information that you provide for other research purposes in the future.

Do I have to take the survey?

No. Participating in the survey is voluntary.

What are the benefits and risks of participating in the survey?

There are no direct benefits to you from participating in the survey. However, you are helping researchers and policymakers learn about the effects of increased salaries for child care teachers. This information will help them find better ways to support teachers in the future.

The risks of participating are small. There is a small risk that your information could be lost, stolen, or misused, even though we try very hard to protect your data. Some of the survey questions involve sensitive topics and may be stressful to answer, but you do not have to answer any questions you don't want to. Information from the study will not be used for monitoring purposes.

Who can I call with questions?

The study also aims to understand how the initiative is implemented, what costs are associated with the initiative, and how the initiative is experienced by the early care and education workforce.

You are being asked to participate in an interview. The information gathered will be used by the research team to learn more about you, your center, and your experiences as director/administrator. We're interested in hearing your perspective on the initiative, what has been helpful for your center, and any challenges you might have encountered.

The interview will take about 60 minutes. Participation is voluntary. If you agree to it, the interview will be audio-recorded. You may choose to not participate or to not answer specific questions. This will not impact any support or funding your center currently receives from ACF or CDEC. If you decide to skip a question, the only consequence is that data will not be included in the results. You can stop the interview at any time, without penalty. [If you choose to participate in the interview, you will receive a $50 honorarium to thank you for your time].

The research team may also ask you to complete a survey, complete a cost workbook and/or complete an additional follow-up survey. Taking part in these activities is voluntary and you will be offered a small token of appreciation to thank you for your time if you choose to participate. We may follow up with the early care and education centers and the workforce participating in this study again in the future. If a future study is conducted, you can decide whether you wish to participate or not at that time.

How will my information be protected?

We would like to audio-record the discussion. This is being done because it is difficult for members of the study team to focus on what you are saying and take notes at the same time. The recording will be transcribed, and the transcriptions will be deleted at the end of the project. Only researchers on the study team will ever hear the recording or see the transcript. You can indicate if there is something you don't want to be recorded.

One-on-One Lead and Assistant Teacher Interview Consent Materials

Teacher Interview: Study Information Sheet (to be emailed prior to interview)

The Colorado Department of Early Childhood (CDEC) is conducting a pilot initiative, the Colorado Teacher Salary Increase Pilot, to increase salaries paid to child care teachers. MDRC, a non-profit research firm, and its partners MEF Associates and Decision Information Resources, Inc. (DIR) are conducting an important study to learn about the effects of the pilot initiative and the experiences of center directors/administrators and teachers. This study will look at the effects of the salary increase on teachers' retention, employment, earnings, and economic and psychological well-being. The study also aims to understand how the initiative is implemented, what costs are associated with the initiative, and how the initiative is experienced by the early care and education workforce. This study is funded by the Administration for Children and Families (ACF), of the U.S. Department of Health and Human Services, in partnership with the CDEC.

You are being asked to participate in an interview. The information gathered will be used by the research team to learn more about you, your center, and your experiences as a teacher. We're interested in hearing your perspective on the initiative, what has been helpful for you and your center, and any challenges you might have encountered.

The interview will take about 60 minutes. Participation is voluntary. If you agree to it, the interview will be audio-recorded. You may choose to not participate or to not answer specific questions. This will not impact any support or funding your center currently receives from ACF or CDEC. If you decide to skip a question, the only consequence is that data will not be included in the results. You can stop the interview at any time, without penalty. [If you choose to participate in the interview, you will receive a $50 honorarium to thank you for your time].

The research team may also ask you to complete a survey and an additional follow-up survey in the future. Taking part in these activities is voluntary and you will be offered a small token of appreciation to thank you for your time if you choose to participate. We may follow up with the early care and education centers and the workforce participating in this study again in the future. If a future study is conducted, you can decide whether you wish to participate or not at that time.

How will my information be protected?

We would like to audio-record the discussion. This is being done because it is difficult for members of the study team to focus on what you are saying and take notes at the same time. The recording will be transcribed, and the transcriptions will be deleted at the end of the project. Only researchers on the study team will ever hear the recording or see the transcript. You can indicate if there is something you don't want to be recorded.

The research team will follow strict rules to protect your information. We use secure computer systems to protect your data from being seen by anyone other than select members of the research team. All research staff working on this project are trained to follow strict data access and security requirements to protect your identity and keep your responses private. Directly identifying information (e.g., names, addresses) will be safeguarded and maintained under controlled conditions. Federal or state laws may require us to show information to government officials (or sponsors) who are responsible for monitoring the safety of this study. We will never share your individual responses or your center in reports about this study. Findings are put into summary reports that contain no names or other information that identifies you or your center.

This study has a Federal Certificate of Confidentiality from the U.S. Department of Health and Human Services. This certificate protects researchers and other staff from being forced to release information that could be used to identify participants in court proceedings. However, we would take necessary action to prevent serious harm to you or someone else, including reporting to authorities. This Certificate of Confidentiality does not mean that the U.S. Secretary of Health and Human Services approves of this project.

This project is subject to the Privacy Act.⁵ Your data will be used solely for statistical research and evaluation. Your data may be shared with researchers involved in similar work and with federal agencies that may have additional data that can inform this study.

How will my interview responses be used?

The research team may combine your interview responses with data from administrative records from Colorado-based government organizations listed below. Access to these administrative records will be limited to the authorized research team members and the Linked Information Network of Colorado (LINC) in the Governor's Office of Information Technology. LINC is authorized to link the data and is responsible for making sure that personally identifiable information from the administrative records is never shared with individuals outside of the research team. Administrative records for this study will be collected for up to 10 years and include:

- Early care and education workforce records from the Colorado Department of Early Childhood
- Unemployment Insurance Wage records from the Colorado Department of Labor and Employment
- Data on post-secondary enrollment and degree receipt from the Colorado Department of Higher Education
- Public assistance program participation from the Colorado Department of Human Services
- Other public records that may inform this study

Will my information be used in the future for other studies?

Yes. We will share the data we collected from this study with other researchers to use in their work, but those records will not include your name or other information that could identify you. You will not be asked to give your permission for this use. If you participate in this study, you are agreeing now to share the information that you provide for other research purposes in the future.

Do I have to participate in the interview?

No. Participating in the interview is voluntary.

What are the benefits and risks of participating in the interview?

There are no direct benefits to you from participating in the interview. However, you are helping researchers and policymakers learn about better ways to support teachers in the future.

⁵ The legal authority for this project is 42 U.S.C. Section 9844 and 42 U.S.C. Subchapter II-B. For System of Records Notice (SORN) information, please see OPRE Research and Evaluation Project Records, 09-80-0361.

The risks of participating are small. There is a small risk that your information could be lost, stolen, or misused, even though we try very hard to protect your data. Some of the questions involve sensitive topics and may be stressful to answer, but you do not have to answer any questions that you don't want to. Information from the study will not be used for monitoring purposes.

Who can I call with questions?

If you have any questions about the survey, the study, or about your rights as a research subject, you may call MDRC's Colorado Teacher Salary Increase Pilot hotline at (855) 907-6695 or email COSalaryStudy@mdrc.org. If you have questions about your rights as a research volunteer, please contact the MDRC IRB Institutional Review Board at IRB@mdrc.org.

Paperwork Reduction Act Statement

The described collection of information is voluntary and will be used to learn about the effects of the pilot initiative. Public reporting burden for the described collection of information is estimated to average 45 minutes per response, including the time for reviewing instructions, gathering and maintaining the data needed, and reviewing the collection of information. An agency may not conduct or sponsor, and a person is not required to respond to, a collection of information unless it displays a currently valid OMB control number. The OMB number and expiration date for the collection are OMB #: 0970-XXXX, Exp: XX/XX/XXXX. Send comments regarding this burden estimate or any other aspect of the collection of information, including suggestions for reducing this burden to [Contractor Contact Name]; [Contractor Contact Address].

Center-based Setting Costs Workbook Consent

Consent to Participate in the Cost Workbook for the Colorado Teacher Salary Increase Pilot

Please closely read this tab and provide your consent to participate before moving on to the following tabs.

The Colorado Department of Early Childhood (CDEC) is conducting a pilot initiative, the Colorado Teacher Salary Increase Pilot, to increase salaries paid to child care teachers. [Intervention centers: Your center was selected through a lottery to receive the salary increase. Control centers: Your center applied to participate in the pilot initiative.] MDRC, a non-profit research firm, and its partners MEF Associates and Decision Information Resources, Inc. (DIR) are conducting an important study to learn about the effects of the pilot initiative and the experiences of center directors/administrators and teachers. This study will look at the effects of the salary increase on teachers' retention, employment, earnings, and economic and psychological well-being. The study also aims to understand how the initiative is implemented, what costs are associated with the initiative, and how the initiative is experienced by the early care and education workforce.

This workbook is part of the study. The information gathered by this workbook will help us estimate the costs of activities related to educator recruitment, including educator job vacancies, recruiting and hiring new educators, and training and onboarding newly hired educators. We are particularly interested in the way that workforce challenges draw on center resources in terms of time, costs, and resources. You may choose to not participate or to not answer specific questions. This will not impact any support or funding your center currently receives from ACF or CDEC. If you decide to skip a question, the only consequence is that data will not be included in the results. If you choose to participate, you will receive $250 honorarium to thank you for your time.

A person who is familiar with program expenditures and staffing and accounting records, such as a center director or whoever does most of the center's financial administration, should have primary responsibility for completing the workbook. This person may need to consult with other people to gather information required to address some questions.

How long will it take to complete this workbook?

We estimate that it will take about 5 hours to complete this workbook. This includes time to identify the person most familiar with program expenditures, review instructions, gather information, complete the workbook, and review the information with our study team in a follow-up meeting, if needed.

What information will I need to complete this workbook?

You will need information about the center's expenditures and resource use. Please use actual expenditure records rather than budgets when gathering information to answer survey questions. Information from budgets can differ from actual expenditures. Please indicate on each tab the records or other sources of information used to complete that tab and any challenges you faced in providing the information requested in that tab.

Am I required to complete this workbook?

No, you and your center's participation is voluntary.

How will my information be protected?

We ask that you return the cost workbook to us using Box.com, a secure file sharing website. PLEASE DO NOT EMAIL THE COST WORKBOOK. Please see the “Instructions” tab for more information.

The research team will follow strict rules to protect your information. We use secure computer systems to protect your data from being seen by anyone other than select members of the research team. All research staff working on this project are trained to follow strict data access and security requirements to protect your identity and keep your responses private. Directly identifying information (e.g., names, addresses) will be safeguarded and maintained under controlled conditions. Federal or state laws may require us to show information to government officials (or sponsors) who are responsible for monitoring the safety of this study. We will never use your name or identify you or your center in reports about this study. Findings are put into summary reports that contain no names or other information that identifies you or your center.
