Do you know of a program that is providing services for youth (ages 14-26) transitioning out of foster care?

Please tell us about this program!

The Chafee Strengthening Outcomes for Transition to Adulthood \(Chafee SOTA\) Project is seeking nominations of organizations or programs that help youth transitioning out of foster care to achieve self-sufficiency. This research project builds on prior evaluation activities that programs may have participated in, and will be using innovative designs to test promising program services or components. Currently, we want to identify established programs serving youth in or transitioning out of foster care (ages 14-26) for evaluation using innovative research methods. We are especially interested in (but not limited to) programs that work with youth (ages 14-26) in any of the following areas:

- developing youth's life skills (both hard and soft skills)
- housing stability
- building supportive relationships
- educational support
- pregnancy prevention
- parenting support
- mentoring
- health and behavioral services
- financial literacy
- employment and job-training
- peer-led and peer-based supports

Youth participation will be an exciting and important feature of the Chafee SOTA project. .

Chafee SOTA: Promising programs and non-traditional learning methods

Prior evaluation work has explored the range of programs serving transition age youth and observed that many programs are difficult to evaluate using traditional methods. Recognizing there is still much to be learned and shared about the effectiveness of specific programs, program components, or implementation approaches for serving youth in or transitioning out of foster care, the Administration for Children & Families (ACF), Office of Planning, Research and Evaluation (OPRE) is working with Westat, the Kempe Center for the Prevention and Treatment of Child Abuse and Neglect, and their partners on this new evaluation effort. The Chafee SOTA project will leverage non-traditional learning approaches to identify and test promising service practices and to strengthen the evidence base and improve the feasibility and rigor of evaluations of program services.

Frequently Asked Questions

Q: What is the Chafee SOTA Project?

A: The Administration for Children & Families (ACF), Office of Planning, Research and Evaluation (OPRE) is working with Westat, the Kempe Center for the Prevention and Treatment of Child Abuse and Neglect, and their partners to obtain nominations of organizations or programs that help youth transitioning out of foster care and young adults formerly in care who transitioned in the recent past to achieve self-sufficiency. The Chafee Strengthening Outcomes for Transition to Adulthood (Chafee SOTA) Project is a multi-year evaluation project to test promising practices, programs, services, and strategies serving youth transitioning out of foster care through the use of innovative learning approaches.

Q: What happens after I nominate a program?

A: We will select programs for participation in the evaluation project through a three-step selection process:

1. The Chafee SOTA Team will call the leadership of all nominated programs to learn more about the nominated program and to discuss participation in the Chafee SOTA project.
2. The Chafee SOTA Team will visit selected programs to conduct evaluability assessments either in-person or virtually.
3. The Chafee SOTA Team, in collaboration with ACF staff, will select programs to participate in a full evaluation involving innovative approaches.

Q. How is this effort different than other evaluation activities a program may have participated in with ACF?

A. Programs may have participated in prior evaluation activities or interviews with ACF/OPRE in the past. This effort is distinct from those activities and will use different methods to test program services or components. Therefore, we encourage interested programs to submit nominations even if they have previously participated in other efforts. In our information gathering, we will ask programs if they have participated in any prior evaluations with ACF/OPRE, and if so, we will make efforts to ensure that we build on any prior information that has been gathered.

Q: What does participation mean for the final selected programs?

A: The final participating programs will be provided site payments and technical assistance to support an evaluation of their program. The Chafee SOTA Team will work with program leadership and local youth and young adults to tailor an evaluation that makes the most sense for the targeted program or services, is respectful of their processes, and captures the spirit, challenges, and successes of their program.

Q: What characteristics does a program need to have to be considered for the project?

A: To be considered for evaluation, a program should be located in the U.S. and serve youth and young adults currently or formerly in foster care between the ages 14-26 years.

Q: How do I nominate a program or organization?

A: Simply complete the Nomination Submission Form on this website, and click to submit your nomination. [All submissions must be received no later than DATE.]

Q. Can I nominate my own program? You may absolutely nominate your own program!
