

SUPPORTING STATEMENT - PART A

Application for Assignment to Housing

OMB Control Number 0704-AFAH

1. Need for the Information Collection

Generally, housing is provided for all active-duty service members, whether they're living on or off base. The DoD shall determine assignment priority categories for housing Service members and eligible civilians, local and/or Foreign Nationals. Assignment to family housing shall be consistent with the requirements for housing by grade and family composition in accordance with DoDI 4165.63 DoD Housing and DoDM 4165.63 DoD Housing Management. An incoming service member filling out the DD 1746 is vital because it provides the necessary information to the military housing office (MHO) to determine housing eligibility for on-base housing, assess housing needs based on family size and rank, and advise and assist service members obtaining community off-base housing.

2. Use of the Information

The information within the DD 1746 "Application for Assignment to Housing" Sections I-VII is filled out by the incoming service member to a new duty station. Section VIII is filled out by the gaining military housing office. The information creates a housing record of the service member, and it establishes a housing eligibility date to assign military housing to an authorized service member. The military departments MHOs use the enterprise military housing (eMH) Family Housing Module (FHM) as the universal system of record to manage unaccompanied military housing, family housing for government owned and controlled housing assets, and is used to assign service members to community housing.

The application form can be emailed in advance or can be filled out in person upon arrival to the duty station. The Navy and the Marines input their DD 1746 data, electronically through the WHS forms website <https://www.esd.whs.mil/Directives/forms/> and their respective MHOs follow up for processing the application. The Army and AirForce, however, process the DD 1746 manually through their privatized Housing Providers. The service members email the application to include all necessary supporting documents e.g. Power of Attorney, proof of child custody legal documents, etc. to the privatized Housing Provider. The MHO uses the information to assess the applicant's eligibility for housing and determine an appropriate assignment based on available housing and priorities for on- or off-base housing. The form is also used to determine eligibility for Basic Allowance Housing (BAH) who are not living in government-provided housing. The form serves as a housing referral certificate, informing applicants about housing restrictions, services provided by the MHO, and equal housing opportunity policies.

3. Use of Information Technology

All, 100% of the received DD1746 forms and its data will be entered and stored in the eMH data base IAW Under Secretary of Defense memorandum, subject: Enterprise Military Housing Information Management System, dated April 16, 2014.

The DD1746 is used daily across the MilDeps and is not used infrequently.
