Dear Parent or Caregiver,

Your household has been selected to participate in the National Survey of Children's Health—Longitudinal Cohort. This survey measures the impacts of the COVID-19 pandemic on children, young adults, and families. The U.S. Census Bureau conducts this survey on behalf of the U.S. Department of Health and Human Services.

The success of this survey depends on your participation. In 2021, 14% of children ages 5 or older had been diagnosed with depression or anxiety. The results of this survey will help our nation better understand and respond to the mental health needs of U.S. children and young adults. We have enclosed a small token of appreciation for your participation. If there are no children or young adults ages 3 to 24 in your household or for whom you are the parent or caregiver, we still want to hear from you.

Responding to this survey is easy:

1. Go to: <https://respond.census.gov/nschlc> or scan the QR code below:

2. Enter your Login ID:

Your household was selected as part of this voluntary survey. We cannot replace your household with another one. If you are unable to complete the survey online, need assistance, or have questions, please call 1-877-749-4943 or email us at ADDP.NSCH.LC@census.gov.

This survey has been approved by the Office of Management and Budget (OMB). The eight-digit OMB approval number xxxx-xxxx appears in the bottom left corner of the survey web page. If this number were not displayed, we could not conduct this survey.

Thank you for your help.

Sincerely,

Robert L. Santos

Dear Parent or Caregiver,

Recently we mailed you a letter requesting your participation in the National Survey of Children's Health—Longitudinal Cohort. Just over half of children and youth had difficulty getting the mental health treatment they needed in 2021. Because of responses like yours, our nation will be better prepared to improve programs that support the mental health needs of children and teens. If you have already responded to the survey, please accept our sincere thanks. If you have not yet completed your survey, please do so right away.

Dear Parent or Caregiver,

Recently, we wrote asking for your help with the National Survey of Children's Health—Longitudinal Cohort (NSCH-LC). If you have already responded, thank you. If you have not, we are asking you to complete this survey because your participation is important for its success. The survey period is ending soon.

Responding to this survey is easy:

1. Go to: <https://respond.census.gov/nschlcr> or scan the QR code below

2. Enter your Login ID:

Or complete the enclosed paper questionnaire and return it in the postage-paid envelope provided

If you are unable to complete the survey online, please complete the enclosed paper questionnaire and return it in the postage-paid envelope provided. This questionnaire is the first part of the NSCH-LC. If you are selected for the second part, we will contact you again.

If there are no children or young adults ages 3 to 24 in your household or for whom you are the parent or caregiver, we still want to hear from you. If you need assistance with the survey or have questions, please call 1-877-749-4943 or email us at ADDP.NSCH.LC@census.gov.

The amount of children ages 5 or older with severe anxiety has increased 36% since 2019. The results of this survey will help us better understand and respond to the physical and emotional health care needs of children and families in the United States. Your household was scientifically selected, and your response represents thousands of other households. The U.S. Census Bureau is not permitted to publicly release your responses in a way that could identify your household. By law, the Census Bureau can only use your responses for statistical research.

Thank you again for your participation. We hope to hear from you soon.

FAQs

What is the National Survey of Children’s Health—Longitudinal Cohort (NSCH-LC)?

The NSCH-LC is a national survey that focuses on the physical and emotional health of children and young adults ages 3 to 24 in the United States. The 2023 NSCH-LC collects information related to the health and well-being of children and young adults, including access to and use of health care, family interactions, mental health, school and after-school experiences, and family economic circumstances.

Why is this survey important?

The NSCH-LC is designed to measure the impacts of the COVID-19 pandemic on children, young adults, and their families. The results of the NSCH-LC will help inform the development of federal policies and programs aimed at improving the health and well-being of children and young adults. For more information about this survey or about health and well-being of children and young adults, go to mchb.hrsa.gov/nsch-lc or scan the QR code.

Why should I participate?

Your household is unique and important. We need to hear from households from all walks of life to collect enough information to help improve the health of children and young adults across the country. If a household that has been selected for the survey does not respond, we cannot replace them with another household.

I have a child that I consider an adult. Do I still need to answer the survey?

Yes. The NSCH-LC asks questions about both children and young adults ages 3 to 24. The survey also asks questions about their families and the experiences of young people as they transition into adulthood.

I have a child or young adult that does not live with me. Do I need to include them in the survey?

Yes, even if the child or young adult does not live with you, if they are ages 3 to 24, we still need you to include them when you respond to the survey.

How long will this survey take?

For most households, the survey should take, on average, 40 minutes to complete. If there are no children or young adults ages 3 to 24 that you are a parent or previous caregiver for, then the survey should take less than 5 minutes to complete.

Will my response be confidential?

The U.S. Census Bureau is required by law to protect your information. We are not permitted to publicly release your responses in a way that could identify your household. The Census Bureau is conducting this survey under the authority of Title 13, United States Code (U.S.C.), Section 8(b) (13 U.S.C. § 8(b)) and Section 501(a)(2) of the Social Security Act (42 U.S.C. § 701). Federal law protects your privacy and keeps your answers confidential under Title 13, U.S.C., Section 9 (13 U.S.C. § 9). Per the Federal Cybersecurity Enhancement Act of 2015, your data are protected from cybersecurity risks through screening of the systems that transmit your data. This survey has been approved by the Office of Management and Budget (OMB). The eight-digit OMB approval number is 0607-XXXX.
