INSTRUCTIONS FOR CLASSIFYING RESIDENTIAL BUILDINGS

RESIDENTIAL BUILDINGS

Residential buildings are buildings containing one or more housing units. A housing unit is a house, an apartment, a group of rooms or a single room intended for occupancy as separate living quarters. Separate living quarters are those in which the occupants live separately from any other individuals in the building and which have a direct access from the outside of the building or through a common hall.

Some jurisdictions issue separate permits for individual units of a multifamily building. In this case, report the total number of units expected in a multifamily building when the first units are authorized. If the total number of buildings, units and valuation for the entire project is unknown, indicate in Section 5 or call our staff. Do NOT report permits for individual units in multifamily buildings separately.

Some jurisdictions issue building permits for residential construction in phases: foundation, shell or superstructure, and interior finishing. In this case, include the number of buildings, housing units and valuation for the intended building when the shell or superstructure permit is issued. Include foundation and interior finishing permits only when issued separately and a valuation of construction is available. In these two cases, enter the valuation in Section 3b–e, depending on the number of housing units in the intended superstructure, and zero for the buildings and units.

 - > attached to main structure via a walkway

MISCELLANEOUS CLASSIFICATION INSTRUCTIONS

- Enter a building in only one category in Section 3. If you cannot determine a category, please call our staff.
- If a building has mixed residential and nonresidential use, enter the housing units based on the residential portion of the building. Please estimate the valuation based on the residential portion of the building only.
- Classify all buildings that are being totally rebuilt on an existing foundation as new construction.
- Type of ownership (e.g. condominium, cooperative, timeshare, etc.) is NOT considered when classifying a building.
