The electronic form FNS-292A consists of four tabs. Each of the four tabs contains eight items (numbered 4 – 11) for each of the four disasters that can be entered per form. Data entry should be in sequence for each of the tabs. A short description appears on each tab on the FPRS screen to provide the user with information that can be used to determine whether to complete a specific tab.

SECTION #4. DISASTER DATE:

This cell contains a date field to allow the user to enter the date of the disaster. In a disaster that spans multiple days (e.g. hurricane, wildfire, etc.), this should be the first day of the disaster.

SECTION #6. TYPE OF FEEDING:

This cell contains a drop-down list that allows the user to select whether the type of feeding is congregate or household.

SECTION #7. TYPE OF DISASTER:

This cell contains two drop-down lists, Presidential Declaration and Primary Disaster Type, and a multi-selection area. The Secondary Types of Disaster identify disasters that result from the Primary Type of Disaster (example: Hurricane Katrina caused floods, as well as other miscellaneous disasters in 2005. Up to 10 secondary disasters can be identified (i.e. flood, hurricane, tornado, earthquake, plus six others). The secondary disasters are optional, and can only be entered once the primary disaster has been selected. When "Other" is selected, a text box is enabled for the user to manually enter the name of the Disaster.
