Generic Communications Templates

The following letters and emails are templates for generic communication materials. Generic communication materials do not preview the topic area(s) that the SPP will be asking about that month and do not provide relevant statistics from prior SPP collections. The SPP team may use generic communication materials during the 2024-25 collection, and the following materials will be adjusted accordingly. Minor formatting and wording changes may be made after approval. Until October 2024, NCES will use the “Nonrespondent” initial letter and email for all respondents.

Dear [POSITION] of [SCHOOL_NAME]

Thank you for your prior participation in the School Pulse Panel (SPP) data collection. This letter contains your <MONTH YEAR> SPP survey invitation.

- The survey will take 30 minutes or less, and your school will receive $200 for completing the entire survey.

Please complete the 30-minute <MONTH YEAR> survey by visiting the link below and entering your User ID:

[URL]

User ID: [EXTERNALREFERENCE]

You should have also received an email invitation that contains this same link and User ID. Please submit your response no later than <DAY>, <MONTH #>, <YEAR>. If you have already responded to the <MONTH> SPP survey, thank you! Please disregard this letter.

The information that you provide is critical for data-driven decision making on program and policy implementation and federal funding distributions by program offices in the Department of Education, the White House, other federal agencies, and Congress. By participating in this survey, you will ensure that information about your school is included in these important decisions.

If you would like to preview the <MONTH YEAR> SPP survey questions before taking the survey online, please visit www.census.gov/schoolpulse to view the questionnaire. If you have questions or need assistance, you may also call 1-844-868-3661 or email addp.school.pulse.panel@census.gov. The Census Bureau is collecting data on behalf of the National Center for Education Statistics.

We look forward to hearing from you!

School Pulse Panel: Frequently Asked Questions (FAQs)

What is the 2024-25 School Pulse Panel?

The 2024-25 School Pulse Panel is a monthly data collection designed to measure a rotating collection of high-priority, education-related topics, as determined by federal stakeholders, interest groups, and school administrators like you.

How is the 2024-25 School Pulse Panel different from other education surveys?

The 2024-25 School Pulse Panel is a unique study. While surveys like the National Assessment of Educational Progress and the National Teacher and Principal Survey produce benchmark statistics critical to monitoring progress over time, they are only conducted once every few years. The SPP surveys schools each month, providing the U.S. Department of Education and federal policymakers with crucial, real-time information that can quickly inform policies and funding decisions at the federal level.

Why should my school participate?

Your school's responses provide national, state, and local education leaders with the information needed to make evidence-based decisions about education policy and resource allocation. Without responses from your school, we will have an incomplete picture of the condition of education during the 2024-25 school year. Data that are representative of all schools inform better policies.

What does it look like to participate on a monthly basis?

Each month's survey will take 30 minutes or less to complete and will be open for two weeks. When surveyed at the conclusion of the 2021-22 School Pulse Panel, 98 percent of participating schools said they felt that the time necessary to complete each monthly survey was reasonable. However, we understand that, as an educator, you are very busy; to show our appreciation for your time and effort for completing the survey, your school will receive $200 for each completed survey you submit. These reimbursements will be mailed five to six weeks after the end of each monthly data collection.

How do I participate?

This is the <nth> monthly collection of the 2024-25 school year. Monthly collections will continue through June 2024. Each school will designate a point of contact that will be responsible for completing the survey. Your school's designated point of contact will receive an invitation to complete the School Pulse Panel survey via regular mail and email. Both will include a link to the survey, which should take 30 minutes or less to complete and will be open for two weeks. The person completing the survey can share the link with a colleague if they need help completing the survey. On behalf of the National Center for Education Statistics (NCES), the Census Bureau is collecting the information. A new survey invitation will be issued each month from the email address addp.school.pulse.panel@census.gov. All participation is voluntary.

Does the person completing the 2024-25 School Pulse Panel for the school have to be the principal?

No. You are welcome to delegate completion of the survey to another staff member who is knowledgeable about programs at the school.

Will you ask the same questions every month?

Some questions may remain on the survey from month to month to learn how schools are experiencing and adapting to change. Other questions may rotate in and out. Topic areas will change monthly and will reflect high-priority, education-related topics that NCES and federal policymakers lack timely data on. You will also help shape content for surveys.

Other important information

By federal law, we are required to protect the responses of all schools included in our survey (see citations at the end of the FAQ). Individual responses will be combined with those from other participants to produce summary statistics and reports. No teacher or student time is required to complete the survey. Send comments regarding the 30-minute survey burden estimate or any other aspect of this collection of information, including suggestions for reducing this burden, to the National Center for Education Statistics Institute of Education Sciences (IES) PCP, 550 12th Street, SW, 4th floor, Room 4036, Washington, D.C. 20202. According to the Paperwork Reduction Act of 1995, no persons are required to respond to a collection of information unless it displays a valid OMB control number. The valid OMB control number is 1850-0969.

NCES is authorized to conduct this survey by the Education Sciences Reform Act of 2002 (ESRA 2002, 20 U.S.C. §9543). All of the information schools provide may be used only for statistical purposes and may not be disclosed, or used, in identifiable form for any other purpose except as required by law (20 U.S.C.

§9573 and 6 U.S.C. §151). Reports of the findings from the survey will not identify participating Local Education Agencies (LEAs), schools, or staff. Individual responses will be combined with those from other participants to produce summary statistics and reports.

The 2024-25 School Pulse Panel is a unique study. While surveys like the National Assessment of Educational Progress and the National Teacher and Principal Survey produce benchmark statistics critical to monitoring progress over time, they are only conducted once every few years. The SPP surveys schools each month, providing the U.S. Department of Education and federal policymakers with crucial, real-time information that can quickly inform policies and funding decisions at the federal level.

Why should my school participate?

Your school's responses provide national, state, and local education leaders with the information needed to make evidence-based decisions about education policy and resource allocation. Without responses from your school, we will have an incomplete picture of the condition of education during the 2024-25 school year. Data that are representative of all schools inform better policies.

What does it look like to participate on a monthly basis?

Each month's survey will take 30 minutes or less to complete and will be open for two weeks. When surveyed at the conclusion of the 2021-22 School Pulse Panel, 98 percent of participating schools said they felt that the time necessary to complete each monthly survey was reasonable. However, we understand that, as an educator, you are very busy; to show our appreciation for your time and effort for completing the survey, your school will receive $200 for each completed survey you submit. These reimbursements will be mailed five to six weeks after the end of each monthly data collection.

How do I participate?

This is the <nth> monthly collection of the 2024-25 school year. Monthly collections will continue through June 2024. We currently do not have an email on file for your school. Please contact adp.school.pulse.panel@census.gov or call 1-844-868-3661 and provide a valid email address for a designated point of contact for this study. Your school's designated point of contact will receive an invitation to complete the School Pulse Panel survey via regular mail and email, which will include a link to the survey. The person completing the survey can share the link with a colleague if they need help completing the survey. On behalf of the National Center for Education Statistics (NCES), the Census Bureau is collecting the information. A new survey invitation will be issued each month from the email address adp.school.pulse.panel@census.gov. All participation is voluntary.

Does the person completing the 2024-25 School Pulse Panel for the school have to be the principal?

No. You are welcome to delegate completion of the survey to another staff member who is knowledgeable about programs at the school.

Will you ask the same questions every month?

Some questions may remain on the survey from month to month to learn how schools are experiencing and adapting to change. Other questions may rotate in and out. Topic areas will change monthly and will reflect high-priority, education-related topics that NCES and federal policymakers lack timely data on. You will also help shape content for surveys.

Other important information

By federal law, we are required to protect the responses of all schools included in our survey (see citations at the end of the FAQ). Individual responses will be combined with those from other participants to produce summary statistics and reports. No teacher or student time is required to complete the survey. Send comments regarding the 30-minute survey burden estimate or any other aspect of this collection of information, including suggestions for reducing this burden, to the National Center for Education Statistics Institute of Education Sciences (IES) PCP, 550 12th Street, SW, 4th floor, Room 4036, Washington, D.C. 20202. According to the Paperwork Reduction Act of 1995, no persons are required to respond to a collection of information unless it displays a valid OMB control number. The valid OMB control number is 1850-0969.

NCES is authorized to conduct this survey by the Education Sciences Reform Act of 2002 (ESRA 2002, 20 U.S.C. §9543). All of the information schools provide may be used only for statistical purposes and may not be disclosed, or used, in identifiable form for any other purpose except as required by law (20 U.S.C. §9573 and 6 U.S.C. §151). Reports of the findings from the survey will not identify participating Local Education Agencies (LEAs), schools, or staff. Individual responses will be combined with those from other participants to produce summary statistics and reports.

Detailed Communications Templates

The following letters and emails are templates for detailed communication materials. Detailed communication materials preview the topic area(s) that the SPP will be asking about that month and provide relevant statistics from prior SPP collections. The SPP team may use detailed communication materials during the 2024-25 collection, and the following materials will be adjusted accordingly. Minor formatting and wording changes may be made after approval. Until October 2024, NCES will use the “Nonrespondent” initial letter and email for all respondents. For a list of topic areas and statistics that may be incorporated into these materials, please see the section titled “Content Areas and Estimates for 2024-25 Communication Materials” in this document.

School Pulse Panel: Frequently Asked Questions (FAQs)

What is the 2024-25 School Pulse Panel?

The 2024-25 School Pulse Panel is a monthly data collection designed to measure a rotating collection of high-priority, education-related topics, as determined by federal stakeholders, interest groups, and school administrators like you.

How is the 2024-25 School Pulse Panel different from other education surveys?

The 2024-25 School Pulse Panel is a unique study. While surveys like the National Assessment of Educational Progress and the National Teacher and Principal Survey produce benchmark statistics critical to monitoring progress over time, they are only conducted once every few years. The SPP surveys schools each month, providing the U.S. Department of Education and federal policymakers with crucial, real-time information that can quickly inform policies and funding decisions at the federal level.

Why should my school participate?

Your school's responses provide national, state, and local education leaders with the information needed to make evidence-based decisions about education policy and resource allocation. Without responses from your school, we will have an incomplete picture of the condition of education during the 2024-25 school year. Data that are representative of all schools inform better policies.

What does it look like to participate on a monthly basis?

Each month's survey will take 30 minutes or less to complete and will be open for two weeks. When surveyed at the conclusion of the 2021-22 School Pulse Panel, 98 percent of participating schools said they felt that the time necessary to complete each monthly survey was reasonable. However, we understand that, as an educator, you are very busy; to show our appreciation for your time and effort for completing the survey, your school will receive $200 for each completed survey you submit. These reimbursements will be mailed five to six weeks after the end of each monthly data collection.

How do I participate?

This is the <nth/th> monthly collection of the 2024-25 school year. Monthly collections will continue through June 2024. Each school will designate a point of contact that will be responsible for completing the survey. Your school's designated point of contact will receive an invitation to complete the School Pulse Panel survey via regular mail and email. Both will include a link to the survey, which should take 30 minutes or less to complete and will be open for two weeks. The person completing the survey can share the link with a colleague if they need help completing the survey. On behalf of the National Center for Education Statistics (NCES), the Census Bureau is collecting the information. A new survey invitation will be issued each month from the email address adp.school.pulse.panel@census.gov. All participation is voluntary.

Does the person completing the 2024-25 School Pulse Panel for the school have to be the principal?

No. You are welcome to delegate completion of the survey to another staff member who is knowledgeable about programs at the school.

Will you ask the same questions every month?

Some questions may remain on the survey from month to month to learn how schools are experiencing and adapting to change. Other questions may rotate in and out. Topic areas will change monthly and will reflect high-priority, education-related topics that NCES and federal policymakers lack timely data on. You will also help shape content for surveys.

Other important information

By federal law, we are required to protect the responses of all individuals and schools included in our survey (see citations at the end of the FAQ). Individual responses will be combined with those from other participants to produce summary statistics and reports. No teacher or student time is required to complete the survey. Send comments regarding the 30-minute survey burden estimate or any other aspect of this collection of information, including suggestions for reducing this burden, to the National Center for Education Statistics Institute of Education Sciences (IES) PCP, 550 12th Street, SW, 4th floor, Room 4036, Washington, D.C. 20202. According to the Paperwork Reduction Act of 1995, no persons are required to respond to a collection of information unless it displays a valid OMB control number. The valid OMB control number is 1850-0969.

NCES is authorized to conduct this survey by the Education Sciences Reform Act of 2002 (ESRA 2002, 20 U.S.C. §9543). All of the information schools provide may be used only for statistical purposes and may not be disclosed, or used, in identifiable form for any other purpose except as required by law (20 U.S.C. §9573 and 6 U.S.C. §151). Reports of the findings from the survey will not identify participating Local Education Agencies (LEAs), schools, or staff. Individual responses will be combined with those from other participants to produce summary statistics and reports.

School Pulse Panel: Frequently Asked Questions (FAQs)

What is the 2024-25 School Pulse Panel?

The 2024-25 School Pulse Panel is a monthly data collection designed to measure a rotating collection of high-priority, education-related topics, as determined by federal stakeholders, interest groups, and school administrators like you.

How is the 2024-25 School Pulse Panel different from other education surveys?

The 2024-25 School Pulse Panel is a unique study. While surveys like the National Assessment of Educational Progress and the National Teacher and Principal Survey produce benchmark statistics critical to monitoring progress over time, they are only conducted once every few years. The SPP surveys schools each month, providing the U.S. Department of Education and federal policymakers with crucial, real-time information that can quickly inform policies and funding decisions at the federal level.

Why should my school participate?

Your school's responses provide national, state, and local education leaders with the information needed to make evidence-based decisions about education policy and resource allocation. Without responses from your school, we will have an incomplete picture of the condition of education during the 2024-25 school year. Data that are representative of all schools inform better policies.

What does it look like to participate on a monthly basis?

Each month's survey will take 30 minutes or less to complete and will be open for two weeks. When surveyed at the conclusion of the 2021-22 School Pulse Panel, 98 percent of participating schools said they felt that the time necessary to complete each monthly survey was reasonable.

How do I participate?

This is the <nth/th> monthly collection of the 2024-25 school year. Monthly collections will continue through June 2024. Each school will designate a point of contact that will be responsible for completing the survey. Your school's designated point of contact will receive an invitation to complete the School Pulse Panel survey via regular mail and email. Both will include a link to the survey, which should take 30 minutes or less to complete and will be open for two weeks. The person completing the survey can share the link with a colleague if they need help completing the survey. On behalf of the National Center for Education Statistics (NCES), the Census Bureau is collecting the information. A new survey invitation will be issued each month from the email address addp.school.pulse.panel@census.gov. All participation is voluntary.

Does the person completing the 2024-25 School Pulse Panel for the school have to be the principal?

No. You are welcome to delegate completion of the survey to another staff member who is knowledgeable about programs at the school.

Will you ask the same questions every month?

Some questions may remain on the survey from month to month to learn how schools are experiencing and adapting to change. Other questions may rotate in and out. Topic areas will change monthly and will reflect high-priority, education-related topics that NCES and federal policymakers lack timely data on. You will also help shape content for surveys.

Other important information

By federal law, we are required to protect the responses of all individuals and schools included in our survey (see citations at the end of the FAQ). Individual responses will be combined with those from other participants to produce summary statistics and reports. No teacher or student time is required to complete the survey. According to the Paperwork Reduction Act of 1995, no persons are required to respond to a collection of information unless it displays a valid OMB control number. The valid OMB control number is 1850-0969.

NCES is authorized to conduct this survey by the Education Sciences Reform Act of 2002 (ESRA 2002, 20 U.S.C. §9543). All of the information schools provide may be used only for statistical purposes and may not be disclosed, or used, in identifiable form for any other purpose except as required by law (20 U.S.C. §9573 and 6 U.S.C. §151). Reports of the findings from the survey will not identify participating Local Education Agencies (LEAs), schools, or staff. A new survey invitation will be issued each month from the email address addp.school.pulse.panel@census.gov. All participation is voluntary.

Does the person completing the 2024-25 School Pulse Panel for the school have to be the principal?

No. You are welcome to delegate completion of the survey to another staff member who is knowledgeable about programs at the school.

Will you ask the same questions every month?

Some questions may remain on the survey from month to month to learn how schools are experiencing and adapting to change. Other questions may rotate in and out. Topic areas will change monthly and will reflect high-priority, education-related topics that NCES and federal policymakers lack timely data on. You will also help shape content for surveys.

Other important information

By federal law, we are required to protect the responses of all individuals and schools included in our survey (see citations at the end of the FAQ). Individual responses will be combined with those from other participants to produce summary statistics and reports. No teacher or student time is required to complete the survey. Send comments regarding the 30-minute survey burden estimate or any other aspect of this collection of information, including suggestions for reducing this burden, to the National Center for Education Statistics Institute of Education Sciences (IES) PCP, 550 12th Street, SW, 4th floor, Room 4036, Washington, D.C. 20202. According to the Paperwork Reduction Act of 1995, no persons are required to respond to a collection of information unless it displays a valid OMB control number. The valid OMB control number is 1850-0969.

NCES is authorized to conduct this survey by the Education Sciences Reform Act of 2002 (ESRA 2002, 20 U.S.C. §9543). All of the information schools provide may be used only for statistical purposes and may not be disclosed, or used, in identifiable form for any other purpose except as required by law (20 U.S.C. §9573 and 6 U.S.C. §151). Reports of the findings from the survey will not identify participating Local Education Agencies (LEAs), schools, or staff. Individual responses will be combined with those from other participants to produce summary statistics and reports.

Estimates

The following estimates may be inserted in place of the “prior SPP statistic” section of the “Detailed Communications Templates.”

Staffing (summer hiring cycle, staffing challenges, current vacancies)

- As of October 2023, 37 percent of public schools were operating with at least one teaching vacancy, down from the 44 percent that were operating with at least one teaching vacancy as of October 2022 (StaffVac1).
- Nationally, 3 percent of all public school teaching positions were vacant as of October 2023 (StaffVac1).
- As of October 2023, 45 percent of public schools were operating with at least one non-teaching staff vacancy, which includes 29 percent of public schools operating with multiple non-teaching staff vacancies (StaffVac2).
- Nationally, 6 percent of all public school non-teaching staff positions were vacant as of October 2023 (StaffVac2).
- Forty-five percent of U.S. public schools reported feeling that they were understaffed entering the 2023-24 school year, a decrease from the 53 percent of schools that felt understaffed entering the 2022-23 school year (HP5).

Community collaboration and partnership programs

- As of August 2023, sixty percent of U.S. public schools utilized a “community school” or “wraparound services” model, in which a school partners with other government agencies and/or local nonprofits to support and engage with the local community (CSP1).
- As of August 2023, among all public schools, the most prevalent community services provided through school partnerships were mental health care (66 percent), nutrition/food assistance (55 percent), and volunteering opportunities (43 percent) (CSP2a).

Principal goals

- N/A – currently planned to be fielded for the first time in 2024-25

Summer and after school programs

- Eighty-two percent of U.S. public schools offered some type of summer programming during summer 2023 (SP_gate).
- Seventy-eight percent of all public schools offered academically focused summer programming during summer 2023, which included summer school, learning and enrichment, bridge, and other summer programs (SP_gate)
- Eighty-seven percent of U.S. public schools offered some type of after-school programming during the 2023-24 school year (ASP_gate).
- Sixty-four percent of all public schools offered academically focused after-school programming during the 2023-24 school year, which includes academic assistance, academic enrichment, and other after-school programs (ASP_gate).

Civics education

- N/A – currently planned to be fielded for the first time in 2024-25

Tutoring programs

- Eighty-two percent of public schools offered some type of tutoring program during the 2023-24 school year (Tutoring_gate).
- Fifty-two percent of public schools offered standard tutoring during the 2023-24 school year, a lower percentage than did so during the 2022-23 school year (Tutoring_gate).
- Thirty-nine percent of public schools offered high-dosage tutoring during the 2023-24 school year, which was not statistically different from the percentage that did so during the 2022-23 school year (Tutoring_gate).
- Seventy percent of public schools offering high-dosage tutoring during the 2023-24 school year reported using federal funds to support this tutoring program (HDT11).

Food and nutrition programs

- Ninety-two percent of public schools reported participating in United States Department of Agriculture (USDA) meal programs for the 2023-24 school year, a higher percentage that reported doing so than during the 2022-23 school year (88 percent) (SchLun1).
- Four percent of public schools reported offering a non-U.S. Department of Agriculture school meal program to their students during the 2023-24 school year (SchLun1).
- Of the 96 percent of public schools that offered a school meal program to their students during the 2023-24 school year, the top challenge they reported in operating their school meal program was school food service staff shortages (41 percent) (SchLun13).
- Of the 96 percent of public schools that offered a school meal program to their students during the 2023-24 school year, 21 percent reported that increased program costs were a challenge to operating their school meal program (SchLun13).

Physical education programs

- N/A – currently planned to be fielded for the first time in 2024-25

Arts education programs

- N/A – currently planned to be fielded for the first time in 2024-25

Educational programming provided by the National Park Service

- N/A – currently planned to be fielded for the first time in 2024-25

School facilities

- 96 percent of all public schools had one or more permanent buildings in use at their school during the 2023-24 school year (Fac19a)
- 31 percent of all public schools had one or more non-permanent (portable) buildings in use at their school during the 2023-24 school year (Fac20a).
- In December 2023, 21 percent of all public schools reported having major repair, renovation, or modernization work currently being performed at their school (Fac24).
- In December 2023, 93 percent of all public schools reported having some kind of athletic amenities on-site (Fac3).

Technology, including digital literacy and the use of artificial intelligence in schools

- Entering the 2023-24 school year, 44 percent of U.S. public schools reported providing internet access to students who needed it at their homes. This is a decrease from the percentage of schools that did so entering the 2021-22 school year (70 percent) (Internet1).
- In August 2023, 95 percent of public schools reported providing digital devices (such as laptops) to students who needed them for the 2023-24 school year (Internet3).
- In August 2023, 75 percent of public schools reported providing digital literacy training to their students, while 27 percent reported offering this training to students’ families (DL1, DL3).

Migratory students

- N/A – currently planned to be fielded for the first time in 2024-25

Housing instability among students

- N/A – currently planned to be fielded for the first time in 2024-25

Climate impacts on educational operations

- N/A – currently planned to be fielded for the first time in 2024-25

Evidence-use

- N/A – currently planned to be fielded for the first time in 2024-25

Parent and administrator concerns

- 32 percent of public schools reported that “several” or “many” parents/guardians have expressed concerns about bullying and/or cyberbullying during the 2023-24 school year (ParCon24_4)
- 40 percent of public schools reported that “several” or “many” parents/guardians have expressed concerns about their child’s mental health during the 2023-24 school year (ParCon24_5)
- 43 percent of public school leaders reported being “moderately” or “extremely” concerned about their students’ mental health during the 2023-24 school year (AdmnCon24_5)
- 36 percent of public school leaders reported being “moderately” or “extremely” concerned about issues related to staffing shortages during the 2023-24 school year (AdmnCon24_10)

State testing perceptions

- Of the 96 percent of public schools that participated in state-mandated testing for English language arts and literacy during the 2023-24 school year, 68 percent believed these tests would not accurately measure the ability of English Learners or students with IEPs (SA_ELA, SA3_4, SA3_5)

- Of the 96 percent of public schools that participated in state-mandated testing for mathematics during the 2023-24 school year, 62 percent reported that they “somewhat agree” or “strongly agree” with the statement “I support the use of current statewide tests to measure student mastery of math standards.” (SA_math, SA1_2)
- Of the 96 percent of public schools that participated in state-mandated testing for English language arts and literacy or mathematics, 33 percent reported the belief that the COVID-19 pandemic and its lingering effects will have a “large negative impact” on their students’ performance on state-mandated testing during the 2023-24 school year (SA_ELA, SA_math, SA2, SA4)
- Of the 96 percent of public schools that participated in state-mandated testing for English language arts and literacy during the 2023-24 school year, 47 percent reported that they “somewhat agree” or “strongly agree” with the statement “The work we will do to prepare our students for the state-mandated English language arts subject test will take time away from other more important classroom work.” (SA_ELA, SA3_3)

School crime and safety

- In January 2024, forty-eight percent of public schools reported having a School Resource Officer (SRO) present at their school at least once a week during the 2023-24 school year (CS7a).
- In January 2024, eleven percent of public schools reported having a sworn law enforcement officer present at their school at least once a week during the 2023-24 school year (CS7a).
- In January 2024, twenty-two percent of public schools reported having a security officer present at their school at least once a week during the 2023-24 school year (CS7a).
- In January 2024, four percent of public schools reported that they had a staff member, aside from any security personnel, who legally carried a firearm on school property during the 2023-24 school year (CS8).

Student and staff mental health

Advance Secretary Letter Communications

The following letter from Education Secretary Miguel Cardona was sent to sampled schools prior to the start of the August 2023 data collection. A letter from the Education Secretary has not yet been approved but may be secured prior to the start of the August 2024 collection. The following letter serves as an example of what may be sent to schools in late July 2024. The exact wording and formatting may change after approval.

Summer 2024 Advance Letter from Education Secretary Miguel Cardona (Accepts Reimbursement)

THE SECRETARY OF EDUCATION
WASHINGTON, DC 20202

July 31, 2023

Dear [POSITION] of [SCHOOL_NAME]:

Thank you for the great work you are doing providing students with opportunities to thrive! The job of school principal is critical for our country's growth. From personal experience, I know the role has many demands for your time and presence; however, I am writing to ask you to be a part of a special group that will inform the U.S. Department of Education (Department) and me on the "pulse" of education in America.

The Department's National Center for Education Statistics (NCES) will be conducting a monthly survey with public school staff for the 2023-24 school year. The survey, known as the School Pulse Panel, is designed to provide educators and policy leaders with information needed to make evidence-based decisions about programs and resource allocations that support your mission of educating our nation's youth, especially as you continue to grapple with the ongoing repercussions of the pandemic. The survey was designed by NCES in coordination with program offices in the Department, other federal agencies, and public schools. NCES will collect data from a representative sample of 4,000 schools on learning recovery, staffing, student mental health, absenteeism, school facilities, and student behavior, among other topics. Previous versions of the survey provided insights on school reopening progress, investments in learning recovery, and the need for additional mental health supports. The survey is an opportunity to share your voice in Washington, D.C.!

Recently, you should have received an invitation to complete a screener survey to confirm the contact information NCES had on file for your school. Soon, you will receive an invitation via email and/or FedEx to participate in the August survey, which will ask about your school's experiences with teacher and staff hiring, technology availability, and community partnerships. You will continue to receive invitations to participate in the School Pulse Panel each month thereafter through June 2024. Completion of the survey may be done by you or another school staff member who you feel can represent the perspective of the school leadership. For example, assistant principals, teacher leaders, or others may serve as your designee. The survey will take 30 minutes or less every month to complete. Your school will receive $200 for each completed survey submitted to offset the staff time necessary to complete this collection on behalf of NCES.

NCES will not identify participating schools but will present results by characteristics, such as student body composition, school neighborhood poverty levels, and other appropriate indicators. Survey results will be released via an online dashboard within a few weeks of collection.

Thank you for considering participating in this important data collection. We believe all students in our public education system deserve the best education possible, and we appreciate the important role school principals play in this work. If you have any questions, please contact the School Pulse Panel team at SchoolPulsePanel@ed.gov.

In partnership,

Miguel A. Cardona, Ed.D.

Spring 2025 Nonrespondent Letter with Non-Monetary Incentive (Tote Bag)

The following letters may be sent to schools in spring 2025 (or earlier) in the event response rates are low. Minor formatting and wording changes may be made after approval.

Nonrespondent Letter with Non-Monetary Incentive (Tote Bag) – Spring 2025 (Reimbursement Schools)

THE U.S. DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION
NATIONAL CENTER FOR EDUCATION STATISTICS

[MONTH] 2025

Dear [POSITION] of [SCHOOL_NAME]:

Thank you for all the work you are doing to educate and make a difference in the lives of our country's students! We know that, as an educator, you are very busy, but we are writing to ask you to set aside 30 minutes each month from now through June to take part in the School Pulse Panel (SPP) survey.

The SPP is conducted by the U.S. Department of Education's National Center for Education Statistics (NCES) and provides educators and policy leaders with information needed to make evidence-based decisions about program implementation and resource allocations that support your mission of educating our nation's youth. Having your voice represented in the survey is critical; without data from all schools that were selected to participate in the study, we will have an incomplete picture of the condition of education in the U.S. during the 2024-25 school year. Participate in the SPP and share your voice in Washington, D.C.!

Within the next few days, you will receive invitations via email and mail to complete the [MONTH] survey online. To thank you for your time and effort in participating in the SPP, your school will receive a $200 debit card for each completed survey you submit. This debit card will be mailed to your school approximately five to six weeks after the end of each data collection.

Last year, NCES conducted the SPP with a different group of public schools. Findings from this collection enabled the Department and the public to have a "pulse" on the challenges school leaders were facing. Some key findings from last year's SPP include:

- In <MONTH YEAR>, <STATISTIC>.
- In <MONTH YEAR>, <STATISTIC>.
- In <MONTH YEAR>, <STATISTIC>.

NCES will not identify participating SPP schools but will present results by characteristics, such as student body composition, school neighborhood poverty levels, and other appropriate indicators. Survey results will be released via an online dashboard within a few weeks of collection. You can explore these results at <https://ies.ed.gov/schoolsurvey/spp/>.

Please enjoy the enclosed tote bag as a token of our appreciation for all the work you do for our nation's students. If you have any questions about participating in the SPP, please contact the School Pulse Panel team at addp.school.pulse.panel@census.gov. The Census Bureau is collecting the data on behalf of NCES. We hope that you will participate in the remaining monthly collections!

Sincerely,

The School Pulse Panel Team

School Pulse Panel FAQ/Brochure

The following FAQ brochure will be posted on the SPP Census website and sent to schools and school districts if requested. Minor changes to formatting and text (such as updates to links and QR codes) may be made after approval.

School Pulse Panel

What is the 2024-25 School Pulse Panel?

The 2024-25 School Pulse Panel (SPP) is a monthly data collection designed to measure a rotating collection of high-priority, education-related topics. These topics are developed in collaboration with program offices within the U.S. Department of Education and across the federal government and represent their school-based data needs. This collaboration reduces the number of federal surveys that your school is asked to participate in.

How is the 2024-25 School Pulse Panel different from other education surveys?

Unlike other federal data collections that are conducted once every few years and release data a year or more after the formal end of data collection, the School Pulse Panel surveys a small sample of schools every month and releases those estimates to the public approximately six weeks after the end of each data collection. These near real-time data are regularly used by senior staff within the Department of Education, the White House Domestic Policy Council, and Congress to inform policies, budgeting decisions, and grant opportunities.

Why should my school participate?

Participating in the SPP is your chance to inform the U.S. Department of Education and the public on the "pulse" of education in America. Without responses from your school, we will have an incomplete picture of all the topics the 2024-25 SPP will survey schools on. Data that are representative of all schools inform better policies.

To show our appreciation for your time and effort for completing the survey, your school will be offered $200 for each completed survey you submit. These reimbursements will be paid out monthly to you.

Participating in SPP

Previous respondents who said participating in SPP was a reasonable investment of time and effort

95%

Previous respondents who said the two-week collection window was enough time to complete a monthly SPP survey

84%

Previous respondents who said it was "easy" or "very easy" to participate in SPP

How do I participate?

The first monthly collection of the 2024-25 school year will begin in August 2024. Monthly collections will continue through June 2025. We will reach out to schools in July 2024 with a short, five-minute screener questionnaire to collect up-to-date contact information for each school's designated point of contact. Each school will designate a point of contact that will be responsible for completing the survey. Your school's designated point of contact will receive an invitation to complete the School Pulse Panel survey via email. The email will include a link to the survey, which should take approximately 30 minutes to complete. You may complete some months but skip others while still remaining eligible for the panel.

On behalf of the U.S. Department of Education's National Center for Education Statistics (NCES), the Census Bureau is collecting the information. A new survey invitation will be issued each month from the email address addp.school.pulse.panel@census.gov. All participation is voluntary.

Other Important Information

Please be assured that, by federal mandate, we are required to protect the responses of all schools included in our survey. Individual responses will be combined with those from other participants to produce summary statistics and reports. No teacher or student time is required to complete the survey.

Questions?

If you have any questions about the study, contact the U.S. Census Bureau at 1-844-868-3661 or via e-mail at addp.school.pulse.panel@census.gov. The Census Bureau is collecting the data for NCES.
