

CONSENT FOR VEHICLE INSPECTION

Emory/Grady Crash Injury Research and Engineering Network (CIREN)

Why are you being asked to sign this form? The CIREN team at Emory and Grady is investigating your crash as part of an effort to collect data on crashes and the injuries that occur from them for the US Department of Transportation, National Highway Traffic Safety Administration (NHTSA). You are being asked for your permission to inspect your vehicle.

What does a vehicle inspection involve? A trained crash investigator will photograph and perform measurements on the outside and inside of your vehicle that was involved in the crash. The investigator will also attempt to download the contents of the event data recorder in your vehicle.

What will be done with the data that are collected from my vehicle? The data from your vehicle will have any information that could identify you removed and will be uploaded to a NHTSA database. These data will be used in analyses to improve vehicle safety and improve the treatment of injuries caused by crashes.

Can you change your mind about consenting to a vehicle inspection? You can change your mind about providing consent for a vehicle inspection at any time by completing the revocation form that was provided in this packet; however, data that have already been uploaded to the NHTSA database cannot be removed.

By signing below, I grant the Emory/Grady CIREN team permission to access and inspect my vehicle.
