

NON-SUBSTANTIVE CHANGE REQUEST JUSTIFICATION
OMB Control No. 3060-1028
FCC Forms 230

The Commission's Office of International Affairs (OIA) is requesting Office of Management and Budget (OMB) approval for de minimis, non-substantive changes to the questions and instructions for this information collection – International Signaling Point Code (ISPC). On August 8, 2023, in OMB Control No. 3060-1028, OMB approved new and revised electronic forms as part of the Commission's modernization of its online, web-based electronic filing system – the International Communications filing system (ICFS). In light of several technology issues that arose during creation of the online forms, the Commission has made de minimis, non-substantive, clarifying changes to the FCC Forms 230 questions and application instructions. The ISPC forms include: ISPC-NEW (for applications for a new ISPC assignment); SPC-WAV (for stand-alone waiver of the ISPC requirements); SPC-TC/ASG (for notification that an ISPC has been transferred to another entity); SPC-MOD (for notification of a modification of an existing ISPC assignment); and SPC-AMD (for amendment of any type of pending ISPC application).

OIA includes (1) screenshots of the ISPC forms as they will appear for public use and (2) the revised instructions. We request that OMB treat this as a non-substantive change to Control No. 3060-1028 as the changes do not increase burdens or costs on the applicants.
