Questionnaire Key

Skip Patterns:

1. Simple skip patterns are identified with an arrow immediately following a response option, as in the example below:

A8A.

Is your program for profit, not for profit, or is it run by a government agency?

1. FOR PROFIT → SKIP TO A9
2. NOT FOR PROFIT
3. RUN BY A GOVERNMENT AGENCY
4. OTHER, SPECIFY: _____

2. More complex skip patterns are identified with a bordered box, as in the example below. Skip Logic Boxes are titled in bold and numbered using the following naming convention: [Section]_S_[Sequential count].

Skip Logic Box A_S_1:

IF A8A = 1 OR 2 ("FOR PROFIT" OR "NOT FOR PROFIT"), ASK A9
ELSE, SKIP TO A11.

Loops:

A loop is a series of questions that are asked iteratively about one or more entities, for example, a series of personal characteristics asked about each child in the household. The loop's questions appear once in the questionnaire, with skip instructions that indicate when the series starts and ends and for which entities the loop is asked. Sometimes one loop is nested within another.

1. Loop patterns are identified with a broken-line bordered box, as in the example below. All loops are bookended with a boxes designated as 'Start of...' and 'End of...' Loop. Loop boxes are titled in italics and numbered using the following naming convention: [Section]_L_[Sequential count].

*Start of B_L_1 Loop (BL1):

REPEAT B1_5 - B1_5H FOR EACH AGE GROUP = 1 (HAVE A RATE IN B1_3A)

2. All questionnaire items within a loop are identified with a truncated loop title, preceded by a '*' and formatted in italics with blue font. A single questionnaire item may be included in none, one, or multiple loops and will be identified accordingly in the questionnaire with zero, one, or multiple loop titles.

B1_5C. *BL1

How many hours per week does that cover?

Ranges:

Numeric open-ended responses throughout the questionnaire, such as number of years or weeks, have a pre-assigned lower and upper limit in the computerized questionnaire to minimize error. These ranges are shown directly beneath such open-ended responses, as in the example below. Ranges are prefixed with "RANGE:" in all caps and formatted with purple font.

B5d.

How many of the children in your program have variation in the number of paid hours of care each week?

_____ Number of children
RANGE: 0-999

Programmatic fills:

Some questions have customized text that is programmatically filled during computerized administration. A descriptor of the customized text is indicated, and users can tell that customized rather than generic text was visible during the interview because the text is bracketed and in CAPS. Programmatic fills within the questionnaire are contained within brackets [...], as in the example below. The fill text within the brackets provides a brief description of what the fill is.

A2G9a. *AL1 *AL2

In the past 12 months, has he/she contributed $500 or more for [CHILD NAME]'s basic needs, for example, food, clothing, or medical expenses?

1. Yes
2. No
3. DK/REF

We are asking your permission to search state or national employment records, college attendance or professional development records, or state data on licensing and/or subsidies. (SUGGESTED SCRIPT) We are asking to link your responses to these data from other sources to better understand how much education and training helps individuals succeed in the field and some of the reasons why people leave the child care field and where they go.

IF NEEDED: State or local government program records can provide additional information about how often child care providers leave early care and education jobs and what kinds of jobs they move to. We would search for additional jobs that you have now or may have in the future.

IF NEEDED: Records on college attendance and participation in professional development and certification can tell us how much education and/or training help individuals succeed in child care and early education or in other kinds of jobs. We would search, for example, registries that track educational credentials, or databases that employers use to confirm college and university degrees held by job applicants to learn what kinds of certifications or degrees you have earned or professional development activities you have undertaken.

IF NEEDED: Licensing data and/or state data on child care subsidies helps us understand how state early care and education policies influence the likelihood of home-based providers to offer care in different parts of the country or under different conditions.

NORC requests your permission to search these data sources. We would not provide the state agency or data administrators with any of the answers you've provided today, other than your name and the name of your program and enough information to find you in the records.

Your name, as well as the name of your program, will not be used in reporting the study results.
