

Service (CMS) providers may elect to transmit emergency alerts to the public. The Commission created WEA (previously known as the Commercial Mobile Service Alert System) as required by Congress in the Warning Alert and Response Network (WARN) Act and to satisfy the Commission’s mandate to promote the safety of life and property through the use of wire and radio communication.

On January 1, 2021, Congress passed the William M. (Mac) Thornberry National Defense Authorization Act for Fiscal Year 2021 (NDAA21). Section 9201 of the NDAA21 required the Commission to complete a rulemaking and adopt rules within 180 days to make certain changes to its WEA regulations, and also to its separate Emergency Alert System (EAS) regulations governing broadcast, cable television, and direct satellite media emergency alerts.

With respect to the WEA rule changes, Section 9201 directed the Commission to ensure that the mobile devices of CMS providers that have elected to participate in WEA cannot opt out of receiving WEA alerts from the Federal Emergency Management Agency (FEMA) Administrator, and to enable reporting by the FEMA Administrator and State, Tribal, or Local governments of false WEA alerts. On June 21, 2021, the Commission released its Report and Order in PS Dockets 15–91 and 15–94 (NDAA21 Alerting Order), FCC 21–77, adopting the WEA and EAS changes directed by Congress in the NDAA21. The EAS changes are the subject of a different notice to be published separately.

The NDAA21 Alerting Order implemented Congresses’ new directives for WEA, in part, with two new regulations that impose new burdens on respondents: the handset display update, and false alert reporting. The handset display update requirement has since been fulfilled by respondents and the burdens will be removed from this collection pursuant to the revisions in this information collection. With respect to false alert reporting, the Commission adopted a rule permitting the FEMA Administrator or a State, Local, Tribal, or Territorial government to voluntarily report WEA false alerts to the FCC Operations Center at FCCOPS@fcc.gov, informing the Commission of the event and any relevant details. This rule created a voluntary mechanism for collection of information so that the Commission can monitor these false alert events which can undermine public confidence in the reliability of emergency alerting and WEA. Email reporting was adopted as a minimally-burdensome way for government entities to report false alerts. The WEA false alert reporting regulation is codified at 47 CFR 10.520(d)(2).

SUPPLEMENTARY INFORMATION:

A. Purpose

The Office of Evaluation Sciences (OES) at GSA has a mission to build and use evidence to better serve the public. The goal of this study is to look across several American Rescue Plan-funded programs that provided dedicated funding for Tribal governments. ARP represented the largest ever infusion of resources into Native nations by the federal governments. In some instances, the ARP was the first time Tribal governments and federal program teams worked together on a dedicated and direct transfer of program funds, requiring rapid innovation and experimentation in program design and intergovernmental partnership. Thus, it is vital to record and amplify key lessons learned, in order for the federal government to be better-positioned to support Native nations in future crises.

Through three data collection methods (interviews, focus groups, and a survey), we seek to learn about and report on the experiences of Tribal government employees or representatives, and the broader communities served by Tribal governments, as it relates to programs funded by ARP for which those Tribal governments were eligible.

With this effort, we seek to understand and highlight successes and challenges in learning about, applying for, and implementing these programs. This effort will be led by a Tribal Engagement Fellow and will be rooted in community engagement to ensure that the studies are informed by the priorities and perspectives of Tribal governments. The study aims to address the following research questions:

- What are Tribes' experiences with accessing ARP-funded programs?
- What are Tribes' experience with implementing ARP-funded programs?

As case studies, we will focus on three different ARP-funded programs in Tribal communities programs as case studies. From this data, we will produce 1-3 descriptive reports that share learnings about Tribal governments' experiences with specific programs. These summaries of the interviews, focus groups, and survey data will be included in a series of public facing reports, which will seek to highlight areas of success and lessons learned for improving federal agency support for Tribal nations going forward. In addition, we plan to produce a report that will synthesize these findings. It
