

Author Full Name : Anonymous AnonymousReceived Date : 01/08/2025 10:02 PMComments Received :

I am having trouble finding a Dr. to take over my care. My doctor is no longer willing to write prescriptions for controlled substances. He is afraid of losing his license to the DEA. I have contacted 5 different physicians to see if they will take over my care, all have said they do not write prescriptions for controlled meds. I am also having trouble with getting my medications filled at the pharmacy. There is a big problem with supply and demand, pharmacies have controlled substances on back order. I have also had my controlled medication reduced to the 90mm limits, at this level I am not getting enough relief from the medication. I was at one time getting enough medicine to control my pain, I have 3 painful diagnoses. The CDC guidelines have reduced my life to just existing, not living and thriving like I once did on adequate pain medicine. My physician is afraid to write prescriptions for the amount of medication that I need. Most days I just sit, my life is now so painful to do much of anything. Please repeal the guidelines that you created in 2016/ 2020. They are making life miserable for people in pain. Doctors need to not be afraid to give their patients what actually works for them.