These CDC guidelines Have caused unbelievable harm And doctors Are completely Incapable of providing sufficient treatment. I went to 18 different doctors in 2021 For pain management And spent over $8 000 out of pocket After I had two surgeons confirm That I would need bilateral shoulder replacement Surgeries But my best option would be to proceed with pain management For as long as possible to postpone surgery due to my young age and the likelihood of repeated surgeries in the future. Despite already being an ideal pain management patient for over 12 years with not a single violation or infraction, none of the doctors would increase my pain medication due to CDC guidelines. These guidelines must be revoked clearly and expressly. doctors and patients need to be allowed to find the solutions that work best for each individual case
