

Author Full Name : Leah SchultzReceived Date : 01/20/2025 03:32 AMComments Received :

I was involved in a chips case with OTC child protection.

My income was poverty level. My status was on reunification. Child protection put my child in many facilities. Two that involved horse therapy. They submitted a redirection of child support to offset the cost of what they had to pay. I appealed it. And I lost the appeal. I am now way below poverty level, and wondering where my next meal is coming from.

I have contacted otc child protection 5 times wanting a detailed account of my child's child support monies. In which they could not give me. They commented that they did not have specific records of these transactions in my child's file or elsewhere. No file if the monies were going to the facilities, nor foster care, nor did they have any information on spending whether it be from her child support or if the agency had purchased her things. So, how do I know if my child has left over monies exiting the system that should be in a savings account for her? Or if child protection spent every last dime of it? This is a pretty important matter that they can not show me in black and white where the money went. So how can they prove to the state or government how much money they do or don't have if they are not keeping records?

I would think that all the funding and grants they received over the pandemic for the children should have been documented. And any transaction as in child support redirections should have been documented. And why they needed all these children for foster care placement to get this extra funding. It's sad that I lost my daughter over such a thing as government monies and the big bonuses the child protection would be getting to place children in foster care. It completely blinded them from "families first act". And I know that I'm not the only mom that has been traumatized in otc dealing with child protection and money matters.

And the worst part....where is the documentation, or records?

I see a problem! And I am only "1". Citizen.

The only files I would have for you would be text messages, and the redirection of my child support thru child support office.

If you need them, contact me

Leah schultz

Leahs2999@gmail.com