SUPPLEMENTARY INFORMATION:

I. Background

The Department of Labor, as part of the continuing effort to reduce paperwork and respondent (i.e., employer) burden, conducts a preclearance consultation program to provide the public with an opportunity to comment on proposed and continuing information collection requirements in accordance with the Paperwork Reduction Act of 1995 (PRA) (44 U.S.C. 3506(c)(2)(A)). This program ensures that information is in the desired format, reporting burden (time and costs) is minimal, the collection instruments are clearly understood, and OSHA’s estimate of the information collection burden is accurate. The Occupational Safety and Health Act of 1970 (OSH Act) (29 U.S.C. 651 et seq.) authorizes information collection by employers as necessary or appropriate for enforcement of the OSH Act or for developing information regarding the causes and prevention of occupational injuries, illnesses, and accidents (29 U.S.C. 657). The OSH Act also requires that OSHA obtain such information with minimum burden upon employers, especially those operating small businesses, and to reduce to the maximum extent feasible unnecessary duplication of effort in obtaining information (29 U.S.C. 657).

The Agency requests a revision to incorporate the Improve Tracking of Workplace Injuries and Illnesses paperwork package, OMB Control Number 1218–0279, into the Recordkeeping and Reporting Occupational Injuries and Illnesses (29 CFR part 1904) paperwork package, OMB Control Number 1218–0176. While both paperwork packages contain information collections contained in the Recording and Reporting Occupational Injuries and Illnesses (29 CFR part 1904), a separate paperwork package for the Improve Tracking of Workplace Injuries and Illnesses rulemaking was necessary to ensure continued OMB approval of the existing information collections in the Recordkeeping and Reporting Occupational Injuries and Illnesses (29 CFR part 1904) paperwork package. The Occupational Safety and Health Act (OSH Act) and 29 CFR part 1904 prescribe that certain employers maintain records of job-related injuries and illnesses. Other employers with 100 or more employees in certain designated industries are required to submit electronically to OSHA information captured on their completed OSHA 300, 301, and 300A Forms. The injury and illness records are intended to have multiple purposes. One purpose is to provide data needed by OSHA to carry out enforcement and intervention activities to provide workers a safe and healthful work environment. Access to this data allows the Agency to more efficiently focus its enforcement and outreach resources toward establishments that are experiencing specific types of occupational injury and illness. Expanded public access to establishment-specific, case-specific, injury and illness data will allow employers, employees, potential employees, employee representatives, customers, potential customers, researchers, and the general public to make informed decisions about the workplace safety and health at a given establishment, and this accessibility will ultimately result in the reduction of occupational injuries and illnesses.

II. Special Issues for Comment

OSHA has a particular interest in comments on the following issues:

- Whether the proposed information collection requirements are necessary for the proper performance of the agency’s functions to protect workers, including whether the information is useful;
- The accuracy of OSHA’s estimate of the burden (time and costs) of the information collection requirements, including the validity of the methodology and assumptions used;
- The quality, utility, and clarity of the information collected; and

- Ways to minimize the burden on employers who must comply; for example, by using automated or other technological information, and transmission techniques.

III. Proposed Actions

OSHA is requesting a revision the currently approved collection of information requirements contained in the paperwork package for Recordkeeping and Reporting Occupational Injuries and Illnesses (29 CFR part 1904) by OMB. This revision is incorporating the collections of information contained in the paperwork package for Improve Tracking of Injuries and Illnesses, OMB Control Number 1218–0279, with the paperwork package for Recordkeeping and Reporting Occupational Injuries and Illnesses paperwork package, OMB Control Number 1218–0176. As a result, the agency is requesting a program change increase of 112,551 hours and an adjustment decrease of 5,934 hours the burden going from 2,167,111 to 2,161,177 hours.

OSHA will summarize the comments submitted in response to this notice and will include this summary in the request to OMB to extend the approval of the information collection requirements.

Type of Review: Revision of a currently approved collection.

Title: Recordkeeping and Reporting Occupational Injuries and Illnesses (29 CFR part 1904).

OMB Control Number: 1218–0176.

Affected Public: Business or other for-profits.

Average Time per Response: Varies.

Estimated Total Burden Hours: 2,161,177.
