

WORKFORCE RECRUITMENT PROGRAM APPLICANT REFERRAL AGREEMENT

The Workforce Recruitment Program (WRP) is a nationwide program designed to provide employment opportunities in the federal and private sectors for qualified college students and recent graduates with disabilities. The WRP works by sharing information about candidates in the database with employers who might be interested in hiring them. By allowing my application and all other employment information gained either through my interview or by submission to be entered into this program, I acknowledge and realize that:

1. This information will be stored in computer systems and made available to individuals in selected federal agencies and private sector companies who are involved in the employment process.
2. Information pertaining to my potential job accommodations will be made available to those who are involved in the employment process.
3. I have the right to apply directly to any federal agency and/or private sector employer on my own. This referral system only augments other processes.
4. The information contained in this referral system will be retained for a limited time period.
5. Unauthorized use of this information system is prohibited and subject to criminal and civil penalties.

* Questions about this eligibility requirement can be directed to your school's WRP coordinator or WRP staff at wrp@dol.gov. Individuals who are taking a reduced course load as an accommodation for disability may be required to provide documentation that the school (usually the registrar's office) has approved this, and that the person is still considered a full-time student.
