DHS will determine or inspect whether you may be admissible for TPS. Do not file Form I-131 if the alien is seeking release via parole from immigration custody. The alien should contact U.S. Immigration and Customs Enforcement (ICE) about the request. ICE generally has jurisdiction over Form I-131 requests when the alien applicant or beneficiary is in exclusion, deportation, or removal proceedings, is subject to an administrative final exclusion, deportation, or removal order, or has previously been ordered excluded, deported, or removed from the United States. Duplicate Form I-131 requests Do not file duplicate Form I-131 requests of the same application type for the same beneficiary. We may reject, deny, administratively close, or terminate a duplicate Form I-131 if a previously submitted Form I-131 with the same applicant or petitioner and beneficiary is pending with that same application type.   |   | https://uscis.dhs.gov/i-131 |                     |                     |

The alien must be physically present in the United States when they file the Reentry Permit application and complete the biometric services requirement. After filing the application for a Reentry Permit, USCIS will inform the alien in writing when to go to their local Application Support Center (ASC) for their biometric services appointment. A Reentry Permit may be sent to a U.S. Embassy, U.S. Consulate, or USCIS International Field office abroad for the alien to pick up, if they make such a request when they file their application. Please note that an alien may not be able to pick up their Reentry Permit at all U.S. Embassies and U.S. Consulates, as available services may be limited at some locations. If an alien possesses a valid Reentry Permit, we will not consider them to have abandoned their status as a lawful permanent resident or conditional permanent resident based solely on the duration of their absences from the United States while the permit is valid. Nonetheless, a Reentry Permit does not exempt an alien from compliance with any of the requirements of U.S. immigration laws, only a returning resident via obtained abroad from a U.S. Embassy or U.S. Consulate provides exemption from such compliance. An absence from the United States for 1 year or more will generally break the continuity of an alien's required continuous residence for the purpose of naturalization. If an alien intends to remain outside the United States for 1 year or more, they may be eligible to file Form N-405, Application to Preserve Residence for Naturalization Purposes. For more information, call the USCIS Contact Center at 800-375-5283 (TTY 800-767-5833). See 8 CFR section 223.30(c)(1). However, if the alien has been outside the United States for more than 4 of the last 5 years (not counting a lawful permanent resident), we will find the permit to be void. As an exception, we may issue a permit with a validity of 2 years for: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>A lawful permanent resident employed by a public international organization of which the United States is a member by treaty or statute; or</li> <li>A lawful permanent resident who is a professional athlete and regularly competes in the United States and worldwide.</li> </ul> A Reentry Permit issued to a conditional permanent resident may be valid until the date the conditional resident status will expire, not to exceed 2 years. USCIS will not extend the validity of a Reentry Permit. We will not issue a Reentry Permit to an alien if: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>The alien has already been issued such a document, and it is still valid, unless the prior document has been returned to USCIS or the alien can demonstrate that it was lost; or</li> <li>A notice was published in the Federal Register that annuls the issuance of such a document for travel to the area where the alien intends to go.</li> </ul> Notice to lawful permanent residents or conditional permanent residents concerning possible abandonment of status: If the alien does not obtain a Reentry Permit, lengthy or frequent absences from the United States could be factors supporting a conclusion that the alien has abandoned their lawful permanent resident or conditional permanent resident status, if DHS determines, upon their return to the United States, that the alien has abandoned their lawful permanent resident or conditional permanent resident status, the alien may challenge that determination if they are placed in removal proceedings.   |   |   |                     | Phase 2 and phase 3 |

The alien must be physically present in the United States and must appear for any required biometric services appointment BEFORE they leave the United States, if they fail to appear for biometric collection, we may deny their application. When filing for a refugee travel document, applicants are advised to carefully review the filing instructions, and ensure that the application is sent to the correct filing location or office. Mislaid applications will result in delays in processing and may result in denial or rejection of the application for a refugee travel document. After filing the application, USCIS will inform the alien in writing when to go to their local USCIS Application Support Center (ASC) for their biometric services appointment. Unless they have other appropriate documentation, such as a Permanent Resident Card (commonly known as a Green Card) and passport, the alien must have a Refugee Travel Document to return to the United States after temporary travel abroad. If the alien is outside of the United States and (1) has valid refugee or asylee status or (2) the alien is a lawful permanent resident as a direct result of their refugee or asylee status in the United States, then, we may allow the alien, in our discretion, to file Form I-131 and apply for a Refugee Travel Document. However, we can send a Refugee Travel Document to a U.S. Embassy, U.S. Consulate, or USCIS International Field office for the alien to pick up, if the alien makes such a request when they file their application. Please note that the alien may not be able to pick up their Refugee Travel Document at all U.S. Embassies and U.S. Consulates, as available services may be limited at some locations. Departing from the United States before we make a decision on the application usually does not affect the decision. However, if we require biometrics while the alien departs the United States before biometrics are collected, we may deny the application. Notice to lawful permanent residents who obtain permanent residence as a result of their refugee or asylee status: If the alien does not obtain a Reentry Permit and remains outside the United States, lengthy or frequent absences from the United States could be factors supporting a conclusion that the alien has abandoned their lawful permanent resident status, with the exception of having to obtain a returning resident visa abroad. A Reentry Permit does not exempt an alien from complying with any U.S. immigration laws. If the alien possesses a valid, unexpired Reentry Permit, we will not consider them to have abandoned their status as a lawful permanent resident or conditional permanent resident based solely on the duration of their absences from the United States while the permit is valid. Notice to lawful permanent residents applying for naturalization: An absence from the United States for 1 year or more will generally break the continuity of an alien's required continuous residence for purposes of naturalization. If the alien intends to remain outside the United States for 1 year or more, they may be eligible to file Form N-476, Application to Preserve Residence for Naturalization Purposes. For more information, call the USCIS Contact Center at 800-375-5283 (TTY 800-767-5833). Abandonment of lawful permanent residence: If DHS determines, upon the alien's return to the United States, that the alien has abandoned their lawful permanent resident status, they may challenge that determination if the alien is placed in removal proceedings, and seeks a determination whether the alien may retain asylum status even if they cannot retain lawful permanent resident status. |   |   | Phase 2 and phase 3 |                     |

If the alien travels and returns in accordance with TPS travel authorization, the alien will be admitted in the same immigration status they had at the date of departure if their TPS is still valid and unless they are determined to be inadmissible under certain criminal or security grounds that are also mandatory grounds of inadmissibility for TPS. In such a case, the alien may be placed in removal proceedings, and TPS may be withdrawn. See Section 304(b)(1) of the Miscellaneous and Technical Immigration and Naturalization Amendments of 1991 (MTINA), Pub. L. 102-232, 505 Stat. 1218, TWA, as amended (8 U.S.C. 1254 note). General Notes Relating to Travel Travel abroad by an alien granted TPS who has an outstanding order of removal or is in removal proceedings may have legal consequences with respect to the removal order or proceedings. If you are under removal proceedings, which includes an unexecuted final order of removal before you leave the United States on your TPS-related travel document, then you return subject to such proceedings and, if applicable, any such removal order. An alien may wish to obtain independent legal advice before leaving the United States if they are in this situation. If an alien has a pending registration application for TPS and they leave the United States, they may miss important notices from USCIS regarding their application, including requests for additional evidence. If the alien does not respond timely to these notices, USCIS may deem their application abandoned and deny the application. Their TPS may also be withdrawn. It is very important that the alien makes appropriate arrangements to ensure that they do not miss any such important notices, including creating a USCIS online account if they have not already done so. An alien can use the USCIS online account to send secure messages, check the status of their cases, respond to Requests for Evidence (RFE), verify their identity, and receive details on decisions for their case. Review the instructions for creating an online account.   | https://uscis.dhs.gov/i-131/tps         |   | Phase 2 and phase 3 |                     |
