Outreach to livestock producers is a great method to demonstrate strong partnerships. At minimum, through the Beef or Lamb Checkoff's the Ag Department might obtain contact information to send information to livestock producers about services provided for effective Predator control. Especially as a sheep producer, we find ourselves expending resources to defend flocks who are used to best manage rangeland and soil function resources which are then best used by wildlife and people recreationalists. Predator control is a means to help us stay in business for the well-being of the ecosystem services.
