The National Household Travel Survey helps us understand the transportation needs in communities across the country. Sharing your travel experiences will help shape the direction of future transportation improvements.

About a week ago, we sent you a letter asking for your help with this important survey. If you have already responded, thank you! If not, there's still time.

To get started, complete a brief five-minute survey. We will then ask your household to record their travel for a single day to earn up to $20 per person. No matter how much or how little you travel, your experiences are important.
