PROJECT TITLE: In-Depth Interviews with Hispanic or Latino Women on the Topic of Climate Change and Infectious Diseases

PURPOSE AND USE OF COLLECTION: The Centers for Disease Control and Prevention (CDC) is requesting approval for a new generic information collection (gen-IC). The goals of this evaluation are to understand the reasons for and sources of Hispanic or Latina women's relatively greater concern (according to research) about the impact of climate change and infectious diseases, in order to improve targeted messaging strategies on the nexus of these topics from CDC NCEZID.

DESCRIPTION OF RESPONDENTS:

- Low-income Hispanic or Latina women living in the United States who are concerned about climate change and infectious diseases.

CERTIFICATION:

I certify the following to be true:

1. The collection is voluntary.
2. The collection is low-burden for respondents and low-cost for the Federal Government.
3. The collection is non-controversial and does not raise issues of concern to other federal agencies.
4. Information gathered will not be used to substantially inform influential policy decisions.
5. The study is not intended to produce results that can be generalized beyond its scope.

Name: Mike Ruddell, Vice President, KRC Research

To assist review, please answer the following questions:

Personally Identifiable Information:

1. Is personally identifiable information (PII) collected? [X] Yes [] No
2. If Yes, is the information that will be collected included in records that are subject to the Privacy Act of 1974? [] Yes [X] No
3. If Applicable, has a System or Records Notice been published? [] Yes [X] No

Gifts or Payments:

Is an incentive (e.g., money or reimbursement of expenses, token of appreciation) provided to participants? [X] Yes [] No

Interview participants will receive a monetary incentive of $75 for their participation. Such an incentive is a standard practice in the market research industry and helps to ensure efficient recruitment and ultimate participation among the qualified and scheduled participants. The amount is also standard for a general public audience participating in a 60-minute interview. The incentive is also intended to offset the cost of personal or professional time taken to participate.

The selection of your targeted respondents

1. Do you have a customer list or something similar that defines the universe of potential respondents and do you have a sampling plan for selecting from this universe? [X] Yes [] No

If the answer is yes, please provide a description of both below (or attach the sampling plan)? If the answer is no, please provide a description of how you plan to identify your potential group of respondents and how you will select them?

Potential participants are drawn from a national panel of individuals who have opted in to participate in interviews on various topics. The contractor KRC Research will direct a subcontracted panel provider to distribute an invitation to screen for the interviews to members of its panel, starting with those individuals whose panel profiles suggest they are most likely to qualify (e.g., have already identified as Hispanic or Latina women, etc.). When an individual receives the invitation to screen, they will either complete a screening questionnaire online (Attachment 1) or via the phone in a call with a panel provider staff member. Individuals must pass the screening questionnaire without being disqualified based on their answers or due to quotas reached on certain characteristics.

A total of nine participants will be purposively selected from this pool of eligible participants. Within the parameters of Hispanic or Latina women, participants will be selected to maximize variability across regions in the US, occupation, relationship status, and parental status.
