[PAGE 1: Consent]:

We are asking your permission for your adolescent (teen) to take part in an interview, focus group, or brainstorming session about teen mental health. We are looking to speak with up to 206 teens ages 13 to 17 who identify as girls or nonbinary (hereafter “girls”) and live in rural areas in the US. Specifically, we want to learn more about how easy or hard it is for teens to access mental health tools and services and how to do this better. We would also like to know how teens think about mental health and how their location may change their experiences in accessing mental health care. This research is conducted on behalf of the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention (CDC).

The project offers three types of sessions:

- Interview: 60-minute conversation between one teen and 2-3 project team members
- Focus Group: 90-minute group conversation with teens, guided by the project team
- Brainstorming Session: 90-minute opportunity for teens to share feedback and ideas with the project team

The session questions ask about mental health topics. For some people, these topics may cause temporary discomfort or cause strong emotions. We do not anticipate any other risks in participating in the sessions. To reduce risk, we will remind participants that they do not have to answer any questions they do not want to answer. If any participant is showing signs of distress during our session our trained team or the onsite partner team will speak with the individual privately, assess the level of distress and respond appropriately. Response will include asking if they currently receive mental health support and if so encourage them to follow up with their provider and offering a Mental Health Resources sheet or, if the level of distress necessitates it, follow the Mental Health First Aid Protocol.¹ If a participant exhibits distress, the project team will work with the recruitment partner organization to follow up with the participant.

We will record audio in the sessions. The team will use the recording to make sure our notes are correct and to summarize what we hear across all groups. Only our project team will have access to these recordings. The recordings will be deleted once our team updates the session notes. Nothing said in the sessions will be linked to your teen. The names of participants will never be used in reports of this research, and we will not share comments from teens with parents/guardians. The sessions will not ask questions about illegal activities. If a participant mentions illegal activities within the sessions, the project team will not report on these activities. We will keep your child's participation in this research study confidential to the extent permitted by law. However, if your child is participating in a group discussion, we cannot guarantee their participation or things they may say will remain confidential and private. This is due to the chance that other participants may disclose information about the group to unknown others. We ask all participants to use only first names or fake names in all group discussions and to keep the discussion in the group confidential to respect each other's privacy. Even with these steps taken, we cannot guarantee confidentiality. Your child should keep this in mind when choosing what to share in the group setting.

This project is for research only. Participants who attend any of the above sessions will receive a $50 Visa gift card per session for their participation. Participation in these sessions is completely voluntary. You do not have to allow your child to take part in any sessions, and your child does not have to take part in a session even if you allow them to. Your child can skip any questions they do not want to answer. Your child can stop or leave the session at any time by letting one of our team members know they would like to end the session. They will still receive the gift card even if they choose to end participation in a session.

If your teen participates in a virtual session, they must have a computer, tablet, or handheld device with a microphone and access to the Zoom app. The Zoom app is free for download and usage. If your teen's computer does not have a microphone, they may use a phone to dial in to Zoom audio.

If you want to allow your teen to join a session, you need to give your consent (permission) as their parent/guardian. Please click continue/next below to provide consent by [INSERT DATE] and share information about your teen. If we select your teen to join, we will contact you both. We will also ask your teen to assent (agree) to participate. There are limited spaces to join. The project team will confirm participation on a rolling basis and will attempt to ensure diversity across teen participants. This means that not all eligible teens will be invited to an interview, focus group, or brainstorming session depending on the distribution of the characteristics of teens who agree to participate. For these reasons, we will not select every teen to join even if you consent to their participation.

If you have any questions, concerns, or complaints about the study, please contact Dr. Catherine Lesesne at 404-270-0513 or at injuryctrengage@cdc.gov. If you have any questions about you or your teen's rights as a research subject, you may contact Solutions IRB by phone, toll-free, at 855-226-4472 or by email at participants@solutionsirb.com.
