PROJECT TITLE: Focus Groups and In-Depth Interviews with Travelers and Travel Medicine Specialists

PURPOSE AND USE OF COLLECTION: The Centers for Disease Control and Prevention (CDC) is requesting approval for a new generic information collection (gen-IC). This formative project focuses on travel health and will inform CDC on two key audiences and their experiences, beliefs, and needs related to this topic. The audiences are 1) frequent international travelers to South Asia and Mexico and Central America and 2) travel medicine specialists. The results will be used to develop targeted messaging strategies and refine existing materials for CDC communications with these audiences.

DESCRIPTION OF RESPONDENTS:

- Travelers: Frequent international travelers to South Asia and Mexico and Central America who visit relatives and friends abroad
- Travel Medicine Specialists: Healthcare professionals who specialize in travel medicine.

CERTIFICATION:

I certify the following to be true:

1. The collection is voluntary.
2. The collection is low-burden for respondents and low-cost for the Federal Government.
3. The collection is non-controversial and does not raise issues of concern to other federal agencies.
4. Information gathered will not be used to substantially inform influential policy decisions.
5. The study is not intended to produce results that can be generalized beyond its scope.

Name: Mike Ruddell, Vice President, KRC Research

To assist review, please answer the following questions:

Gifts or Payments:

Is an incentive (e.g., money or reimbursement of expenses, token of appreciation) provided to participants? [X] Yes [] No

Focus group and interview participants will receive a monetary incentive of $75 for their participation. Such an incentive is a standard practice in the market research industry and helps to ensure efficient recruitment and ultimate participation among the qualified and scheduled participants. The amount is also standard for a general public audience participating in an extended discussion. The incentive is also intended to offset the cost of personal or professional time taken to participate.

If you are conducting a focus group, survey, or plan to employ statistical methods, please provide answers to the following questions:

The selection of your targeted respondents

1. Do you have a customer list or something similar that defines the universe of potential respondents and do you have a sampling plan for selecting from this universe? ☒ Yes
☐ No

If the answer is yes, please provide a description of both below (or attach the sampling plan)? If the answer is no, please provide a description of how you plan to identify your potential group of respondents and how you will select them?

Potential focus group and interview participants are drawn from a national panel of individuals who have opted in to participate in such qualitative activities about various topics. The contractor KRC Research will direct a subcontracted panel provider to distribute an invitation to screen for the focus groups or interviews to members of its panel, starting with those individuals whose panel profiles suggest they are most likely to qualify (e.g., are frequent international travelers). When an individual receives the invitation to screen, they will either complete a screening questionnaire online (Attachment 1,4, 7) or via the phone in a call with a panel provider staff member. Individuals must pass the screening questionnaire without being disqualified based on their answers or due to quotas reached on certain characteristics.

A total of eight travel medicine specialists will be selected for in-depth interviews and 48 travelers will be selected to participate in focus groups. Within the parameters of screening criteria, participants will be recruited to ensure diversity across gender identity, U.S. Census region, and type of region (urban, suburban, small town/rural) as well as other audience-specific characteristics like healthcare practice setting.
