I hope that your office will consider an adjustment or the end of the Civil Rights Data Collection. The work of monitoring and addressing issues of discrimination or discriminatory practices can not be understated but I am seeing little work with this data that is yielding significant change. This work requires huge amounts of data processing and entry for a benefit that I have yet to tangibly see. I understand the value of data and the power that it can leverage for change. That said, as someone working in the field of education, I also understand the waste in the collection of data if it doesn't serve a problem-solving purpose. Secondly, please pull as much of this information as possible from the state. Huge portions of this information are already reported to the Kansas State Department of Education through its required collections. By pairing with them to pull this information you eliminate the wasting of valuable time from administrators across the state.
