

Author Full Name : Kyle PaulsonReceived Date : 01/17/2025 11:49 AMComments Received :

The Mandatory Civil Rights Data Collection process places a significant burden on school administrators. In our small school, it takes nearly two full days to input data, with no feedback provided and no apparent benefit to our student population. Our state education department already has an effective review system that includes accessible support for addressing issues. This outdated data collection process continues to expand unnecessarily when it should either be simplified or discontinued entirely.