

2023 National Survey of Children's Health Longitudinal Cohort (NSCH-LC)
Mail Materials Cognitive Interviewing Letters

Letter 1 - NSCH-LC-E1

Dear Parent or [Previous] Caregiver of CHILD NAME [PERSON NAME],

A parent or caregiver previously participated in a survey that asked about the health and well-being of a child in this household. Because of responses like yours, pediatricians are now better prepared to help children and teens with their mental health needs.

We are now contacting you as part of the National Survey of Children's Health Longitudinal Cohort to measure the impacts of the COVID-19 pandemic on children, young adults, and families. The U.S. Census Bureau conducts this survey on behalf of the U.S. Department of Health and Human Services.

We have some important follow-up questions about:

[CHILD/PERSON NAME]

This voluntary survey should be filled out by a parent or [previous] caregiver who is familiar with this child's [person's] health and health care. We ask for your response, even if this child [person] no longer lives in your household. We have enclosed a small token of appreciation for your participation.

Responding to this survey is easy:

1. Go to: <https://respond.census.gov/nschlrc>
2. Enter your Login ID:

The success of this survey depends on your participation. The results will help our nation better understand and respond to the physical and emotional health care needs of children and families across the country, following the COVID-19 pandemic.

If you do not know this child [person], or if you have questions or need assistance with the survey, please call 1-877-749-4943 or email childrenshealth@census.gov.

Thank you once again for your help.

Sincerely,

Robert L. Santos

FAQs

What is the National Survey of Children's Health Longitudinal Cohort (NSCH-LC)?

The NSCH-LC is a national survey that focuses on the physical and emotional health of 3- to 23-year-olds in the United States. The 2023 NSCH-LC collects information related to the health and well-being of children and young adults, including access to and use of health care, family interactions, mental health, school and after-school experiences, and family economic circumstances.

Why is this survey important?

The NSCH-LC is designed to measure the impacts of the Covid-19 pandemic on children, young adults, and their families. The results of the NSCH-LC will help inform the development of federal policies and programs aimed at improving the health and well-being of children and young adults.

Why should I participate?

This survey collects information used to improve the health of children and young adults across the country. Once a child or young adult has been selected for the survey, we cannot replace them.

This child is now an adult. Do I still need to answer the survey?

Yes. The NSCH-LC asks questions about children and the experiences they and their families have had since the last survey. The survey also asks questions about the experiences of young people as they transitioned into adulthood.

This child or young adult no longer lives with me. Do I still need to answer the survey?

Yes, even if the child or young adult no longer lives with you, we still need you to respond.

How long will this survey take?

For most households, the survey should take, on average, 40 minutes to complete.

Will my response be confidential?

The U.S. Census Bureau is required by law to protect your information. We are not permitted to publicly release your responses in a way that could identify your household. The Census Bureau is conducting this survey under the authority of Title 13, United States Code (U.S.C.), Section 8(b) (13 U.S.C. § 8(b)) and Section 501(a)(2) of the Social Security Act (42 U.S.C. § 701). Federal law protects your privacy and keeps your answers confidential under Title 13, U.S.C., Section 9 (13 U.S.C. § 9). Per the Federal Cybersecurity Enhancement Act of 2015, your data are protected from cybersecurity risks through screening of the systems that transmit your data. This survey has been approved by the Office of Management and Budget (OMB). The eight-digit OMB approval number is XXXX-XXXX.
