Eligibility	1. If you are a U.S. citizen, you must file a separate Form I-130 for each eligible relative. You may file Form I-130 for:	Your spouse;	If you are filing for your spouse, he or she must complete and sign Form I-130A, Supplemental Information for Spouse Beneficiary. If your spouse is overseas, Form I-130A must still be completed, but your spouse does not have to sign Form I-130A. Form I-130A must be submitted with Form I-130. Who May Not File You may not file a form I-130 for a person in the following categories: • A spouse, if you and your spouse were not both physically present at the marriage ceremony, unless the marriage was consummated; • A spouse, if you gained lawful permanent resident status through a prior marriage to a U.S. citizen or lawful permanent resident, unless: A. You are now a naturalized U.S. citizen; B. You have been a lawful permanent resident for at least five years; C. You can establish by clear and convincing evidence that you did not enter the prior marriage (through which you gained your lawful permanent resident status) in order to evade any U.S. immigration law; or D. Your prior marriage through which you gained your immigrant status was terminated by the death of your former spouse. • A spouse, if you married your spouse while he or she was the subject of an exclusion, deportation, removal, or rescission proceeding regarding his or her right to be admitted into or to remain in the United States, or while a decision in any of these proceedings was before any court on judicial review. However, you may be eligible for the bona fide marriage exemption under INA section 245(e)(3) if: A. You request in writing a bona fide marriage exemption and prove by clear and convincing evidence that the marriage is legally valid where it took place and that you and your spouse married in good faith and not for the purpose of obtaining lawful permanent resident status for your spouse and that no fee or any other consideration (other than appropriate attorney fees) was given to you for your filing of this petition. The request must be submitted with Form I-130; or B. Your spouse has lived outside the United States, after the marriage, for a period of at least two years; • Any person, if USCIS determines that he or she entered into or attempted or conspired to enter into a marriage in order to evade U.S. immigration laws; and • A grandparent, grandchild, nephew, niece, uncle, aunt, cousin, or parent-in-law.
		Your unmarried children under 21 years of age;	Who May Not File You may not file Form I-130 for a person in the following categories: • An adoptive parent or adopted child, if the adoption took place after the child turned 16 years of age, or if the child has not been in the legal custody and has not lived with the parents for at least 2 years before filing the petition; • A stepparent or stepchild, if the marriage that created the relationship took place after the child turned 18 years of age; and • A grandparent, grandchild, nephew, niece, uncle, aunt, cousin, or parent-in-law If the beneficiary qualifies as: • Your unmarried children 21 years of age or older, • Your married children of any age, or • Your brother or sister (you must be 21 years of age or older), you are not required to file separate petitions for the beneficiary's spouse or unmarried children under 21 years of age. They are considered derivative beneficiaries and you should list them in the Beneficiary's Family section of this petition. The derivative beneficiaries described above may apply for an immigrant visa along with the beneficiary. Who May Not File You may not file Form I-130 for a person in the following categories: • An adoptive parent or adopted child, if the adoption took place after the child turned 16 years of age, or if the child has not been in the legal custody and has not lived with the parents for at least 2 years before filing the petition; • A stepparent or stepchild, if the marriage that created the relationship took place after the child turned 18 years of age; and • A grandparent, grandchild, nephew, niece, uncle, aunt, cousin, or parent-in-law.
		Your unmarried sons or daughters 21 years of age or older;	If the beneficiary qualifies as: • Your unmarried children 21 years of age or older, • Your married children of any age, or • Your brother or sister (you must be 21 years of age or older), you are not required to file separate petitions for the beneficiary's spouse or unmarried children under 21 years of age. They are considered derivative beneficiaries and you should list them in the Beneficiary's Family section of this petition. The derivative beneficiaries described above may apply for an immigrant visa along with the beneficiary. Who May Not File You may not file Form I-130 for a person in the following categories: • An adoptive parent or adopted child, if the adoption took place after the child turned 16 years of age, or if the child has not been in the legal custody and has not lived with the parents for at least 2 years before filing the petition; • A stepparent or stepchild, if the marriage that created the relationship took place after the child turned 18 years of age; • Any person, if USCIS determines that he or she entered into or attempted or conspired to enter into a marriage in order to evade U.S. immigration laws; and • A grandparent, grandchild, nephew, niece, uncle, aunt, cousin, or parent-in-law.
		Your married sons or daughters of any age;	If the beneficiary qualifies as: • Your unmarried children 21 years of age or older, • Your married children of any age, or • Your brother or sister (you must be 21 years of age or older), you are not required to file separate petitions for the beneficiary's spouse or unmarried children under 21 years of age. They are considered derivative beneficiaries and you should list them in Part 4. of this petition. The derivative beneficiaries described above may apply for an immigrant visa along with the beneficiary. Who May Not File You may not file Form I-130 for a person in the following categories: • An adoptive parent or adopted child, if the adoption took place after the child turned 16 years of age, or if the child has not been in the legal custody and has not lived with the parents for at least 2 years before filing the petition; and • A stepparent or stepchild, if the marriage that created the relationship took place after the child turned 18 years of age. • Any person, if USCIS determines that he or she entered into or attempted or conspired to enter into a marriage in order to evade U.S. immigration laws; and • A grandparent, grandchild, nephew, niece, uncle, aunt, cousin, or parent-in-law.
		Your brothers or sisters (you must be 21 years of age or older); and	If the beneficiary qualifies as: • Your unmarried children 21 years of age or older, • Your married children of any age, or • Your brother or sister (you must be 21 years of age or older), you are not required to file separate petitions for the beneficiary's spouse or unmarried children under 21 years of age. They are considered derivative beneficiaries and you should list them in the Beneficiary's Family section of this petition. The derivative beneficiaries described above may apply for an immigrant visa along with the beneficiary. Who May Not File • Any person, if USCIS determines that he or she entered into or attempted or conspired to enter into a marriage in order to evade U.S. immigration laws; and • A grandparent, grandchild, nephew, niece, uncle, aunt, cousin, or parent-in-law.
		Your mother or father (you must be 21 years of age or older).	Who May Not File You may not file Form I-130 for a person in the following categories: • An adoptive parent or adopted child, if the adoption took place after the child turned 16 years of age, or if the child has not been in the legal custody and has not lived with the parents for at least 2 years before filing the petition; • A natural parent, if you gained lawful permanent resident status or U.S. citizenship through adoption or as a special immigrant juvenile; • A stepparent or stepchild, if the marriage that created the relationship took place after the child turned 18 years of age; • Any person, if USCIS determines that he or she entered into or attempted or conspired to enter into a marriage in order to evade U.S. immigration laws; and • A grandparent, grandchild, nephew, niece, uncle, aunt, cousin, or parent-in-law.

				4.1	What is the beneficiary's A-Number?	A-	Text	The A-Number is an immigration file number provided by U.S. immigration officials. We use your A-Number to identify your immigration records. It is a 7 to 9-digit number that begins with an "A" and can be found on correspondence or cards you have received from DHS, USCIS, or on immigration court records (for example, Form I-797, Receipt Notice; an Employment Authorization Document; a Permanent Resident Card). If you do not have an A-Number, USCIS may assign one to you.	Provide a 7, 8, or 9-digit number. If the A-Number is fewer than 9 digits, the system will automatically add zero(s) after the "A" and before the first digit so there is a total of 9 digits, for example: A-001234567.
						They do not have an A-Number.	Checkbox
				4.2	What is the beneficiary's USCIS Online Account Number?
