

Feedback Form

Boundary and Annexation Survey

The Census Bureau is adding a feedback component to its geographic partnership programs to allow for the solicitation of feedback to improve the administration of the respective program and potentially reduce the future burden. Eligible governments may be asked to provide their feedback on materials, method(s) of data collection, manner of communications, and the usability of the program applications and tools. For the Boundary and Annexation Survey, the feedback component may apply to a maximum of 1,000 eligible governments.

1. Tell us about your experience participating in the Boundary and Annexation Survey. What do you like about the participation process (e.g., online response form, notifications, submission options, training)? What would you like to see improve?
2. Tell us about your experience using GUPS Web. What functionality did you like? What do you think could be improved?
3. Tell us about your experience using the Geography Division Partner Portal. What functionality did you like? What do you think could be improved?

The Census Bureau estimates that participating in the feedback component of the Boundary and Annexation Survey will take half an hour on average. Send comments regarding this burden estimate or any other aspect of this collection of information, including suggestions for reducing this burden, using Paperwork Reduction Project 0607-0151 as the subject, to geo.bas@census.gov. This collection has been approved by the Office of Management and Budget (OMB). The eight-digit OMB approval number confirms this approval. If this number were not displayed, we could not conduct this component of the survey. The Census Bureau conducts this program under the legal authority of the Title 13 United States Code, Section 6.
