Using the federal register “notice” to try and overturn the legal form allowed to appeal VHA caregiver decisions, is a violation of the U.S. Court of Appeals for Veterans Claims (CAVC) ruling in Beaudette v. McDonough (2021), which established that denials or reductions in the Program of Comprehensive Assistance for Family Caregivers (PCAFC) are appealable to the Board of Veterans' Appeals (BVA), overturning previous VA policy that restricted these decisions to internal VHA reviews.
