Thank you for participating in this study. To receive a gift certificate, you must complete this survey on a personal, non-government device, outside of duty hours. If you are currently on a government device, forward this link to a personal computer or smartphone and close out of this window to take the survey while off-duty.

This survey will take you about 20-30 minutes to complete and covers many different topics related to your dating, sexual, personal, and professional relationships. There are no right or wrong answers, only what is right to you. We ask only that you answer each question as honestly as you can. It is your right to skip questions that you do not feel comfortable answering. However, we hope that you will keep in mind that the information you provide will be anonymous. We are protecting your anonymity in the following ways:

- The survey platform we use does NOT collect name, e-mail address, IP address, or location, so we won't be able to link your identity to your survey responses in any way.
- At the end of the survey, you can claim your gift certificate by entering your e-mail address at a separate link so there is no way to connect your e-mail to your survey response.
- This research is conducted by IDA, a nonprofit organization that is external to the Department of Defense. The data will not be sent to individual Commands or unit leaders.

Press the arrow button below to begin the survey. Keep in mind that in order for the information from this research to be most helpful, it is important that you try to be as accurate, complete, and honest as possible with your answers.

Q20 [Peterson et al., 2010, Sexual Strategies Scale (SSS)]

In this section, you will be asked about strategies you used to try and get someone to have sex with you at any time or any place since you began serving in the military, starting with basic training. These experiences could occur off-installation or on-installation and with anyone, including civilians or military members.

Since you began serving in the military, have you ever used the following strategies to get someone to have sex with you when they didn't want to? By sex we mean oral sex, anal sex, vaginal intercourse, or vaginal/anal penetration by a finger or object.

We know these are personal questions, so all the information you share is anonymous and cannot be linked to your identity.

[Abbey, Parkhill, and Koss, 2005, Sexual Experiences Survey]

In this section, you will be asked about sexual experiences. These questions are similar to those you just answered, but refer to both the ways you tried to get someone to have sex as well as the type of sexual experiences you had (sex, sexual touching). You will be asked about experiences that occurred at any time or any place since you began serving in the military, starting with basic training. These experiences could occur off-installation or on-installation and with anyone, including civilians or military members.

Since you began serving in the military, have you ever had the following experiences? When we use the term sex below we mean oral sex, anal sex, vaginal intercourse, or vaginal/anal penetration by a finger/object. Select the number of times each experience happened. If several experiences occurred on the same occasion, please indicate all of them. We know these are personal questions, so all the information you share is anonymous and cannot be linked to your identity.
